To my dearest Kasabamelon,

O-Sure! Well we have been going to school together for 1 1/2 years.
Pretty fine. Stay at Wilson with me.
I don't want to be left alone with Mrs. Dyke. You are the finest person I know. Besides John & Astin. What bros. We will go to California together this summer. Peachy

Cara - you are one of my best friends in this universe - I love you dearly and you can come over and make macaroni & cheese when ever you like. Also by next year we'll both be slinky brown babies and be sophomores - woopie! Well, I think we should go down to Eugene to cruise the guys or what. we'll say we're staying w/ your brother and ya know! But none of that disgusting "doubt" I'm really ashamed your brother would do that. Not really. but yeknow! Well tell Mom & Dad high for me and we'll go rattling one of these days. This summer all we're going to do is take-sun bathe-shop & have fun. Now, I'll convert you back to your old ways and you won't turn out w/ Black hair (J/k) Well I'm really chained from signing every- one else's but I'll cont. later. I ♥ you

DEDICATION

Although Wilson is the home of outstanding achievers in academics, athletics, and extracurricular activities, not every student can be a 4.0 scholar, a basketball superstar or a concert violinist. Some of this year's most outstanding students never kicked a game winning field goal or starred in the Spring Musical. For equally important as intelligence and talent are dedication and commitment. The award-winning Statesman newspaper was not a last-minute production by a few star reporters, but a time-consuming, demanding effort by the determined Statesman staff. Likewise, our convenient Wooden Horse store would not have kept its doors open without the diligent work by Wilson marketing students. Why did our student body stand out this year? For the answer, look to all the dedicated athletes, student officers, actors, cheerleaders, and club members willing to give their time and energy to Wilson High.

CONFUSION

Let's face it. Not everything goes smoothly all of the time, not even in the wonderful world of Woody. Take arena scheduling, that bewildering ritual endured each year by sophomores, juniors, and, yes, even seniors. Remember when every class closed as you walked into the cafeteria and you ended up with eighteen mods of underwater basket weaving and no lunch? Or how about the time you got into all the right classes- all meeting mod 8. Which brings us to the mod system. Admit it, you still haven't figured it out, or is "What mod is it?" an acceptable replacement for "Hello" these days. Certainly, confusion is not as confusing as confused people confuse it to be. Confused yet? Wondering who, what, where, when, or why? Don't worry, we'll tell you why!

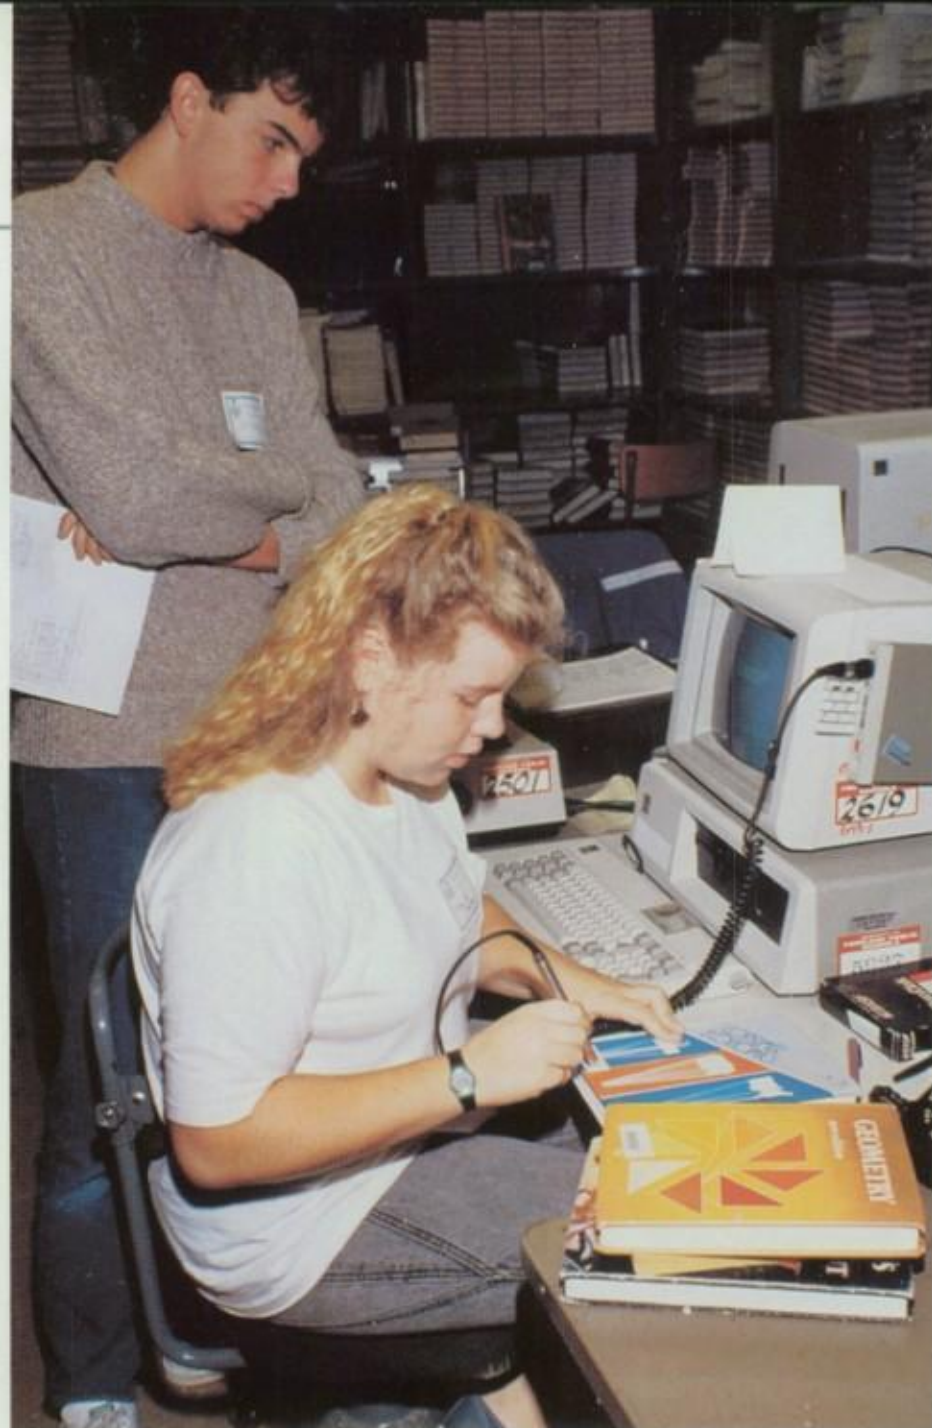

SUMMER'S OVER! Droopy eyes and a shiny, new umbrella are sure signs of another new schoolyear in Woodyland.

SURE-FIRE STUDY HABITS. Senior, Jim McCartan, prepares a "visual aid" for a speech exam. But seriously, a conscientious Wilson scholar like Jim would never do that...

Why?

ENTHUSIASM

The educational process can be mundane. It's easy to become bored watching films made in the early sixties, especially when it's raining and the sun has not been out for the past thirty-seven days. Could it be that this year's Wilson students make even the grayest days exciting? Yes, we have the necessary enthusiasm. Many students channeled it toward constructive causes. School spirit helped collect numerous cans of food and quarts of blood. At many important games, Wilson students loudly supported their athletes. Others devoted their creative energy to club activities; Key Clubbers enjoyed carving pumpkins for area nursing homes, while Mu Alpha Theta members eagerly attacked fiendish math problems, heaping honor on Wilson. Wilson's enthusiasm simply knew no bounds.

"MUST BE MY AFTERSHAVE!" Senior, Guy McCreery, shows off an impressive collection in the cafeteria. Grinning with Guy are Julie Jackson, Dawn Charlot, Karen Blom, Ronda Zezula, Chrissie Griffith, and Jessica Phillips.

"ATTACK OF THE KILLER UNDERCLASSMAN!!!" Sophomore, Ben Crosby, figures he'll graduate sooner if he eliminates all the upperclassmen ahead of him. Ben tests his theory with senior, Ilona Layton.

"AND A PERSONAL FINANCE TEXT TO GO" Amy Heil calmly finishes up an order with the help of the new, time-saving computer. Scott Prendergast waits impatiently to deliver the merchandise to book-hungry mobs outside.

EXCELLENCE

"For as the old saying goes When house and land are gone and spent then learning is most excellent." - Samuel Foote

At a time when mediocrity is frequently sufficient, Wilson encourages its students to incorporate excellence into their work and activities. With the guidance of teachers, students set high goals and work to achieve them. We see their success reflected in the speech team trophies and the lengthy honor roll. It is evident in the championship athletic teams, and the artists who fill the showcases with the products of their talents. We experience it each time a student actor or musician takes the stage to perform a well rehearsed piece. It is in the classroom where students learn to accomplish excellence; the door to opportunity. Why do we have excellence? Because we're Wilson and we have what it takes.

We have each other

KICKING BACK. Phil Eichler, sophomore, amuses himself in the H-courtyard with his hackey sack.

Student Life

Life out of the class room consists of more than just parties, "Moonlighting" and shopping. Student life is running day after day preparing for a cross-country meet and making Whoppers at Burger King on the weekends. It's writing a term paper for Junior English and downhill skiing in December. Student life is not always "living it up." Some say that these are the best years of our lives, but we accept the hard work and challenges as well as leisure activities. To quote one low flying student "The Wilson experience stinks good!" Most students and teachers would seem to agree.

AFTERSCHOOL LIFE

"Homework, homework, give me a break!" While some may go straight home to begin their studies, after school is a time for most Wilson students to enjoy participating in a number of activities. There are clubs and teams to join for those who can't get enough of Woody High during the day. For all the jocks and jockettes, Wilson offers a wide choice of sports in which to participate. Many of us disciplined and persevering students go right to work after the long school day, while others opt for more relaxing activities, such as cruising the streets in sporty Rabbit convertibles and Volkswagon bugs or "hanging out" at friends houses. Let us not forget those fine individuals who rush home every day to watch "All My Children", "The Jetsons", and "The Brady Bunch". As Marsha Brady would say, "School is swell but after school is the grooviest!"

Open those books and let's get to work! Wilson prides itself on being one of the most academically inclined high schools in the city of Portland. The mod-flex system allows students to spend free time throughout the day studying in the library, English Resource Center, and Social Studies Resource Center. At night, we settle down to some serious homework! It's not unusual for students to work long into the night on intense English essays, complex physics labs, and endless math assignments. It's a tough job, but we all know it's worth it.

WEEKEND LIFE

Every Friday afternoon at 3:05, that special time begins — the weekend! It's an eagerly awaited two-day break from the hustle and stress of the schoolday, serving as an opportunity for relaxation and leisure, a time to fill with a flurry of social activity, or a time to spend with family. Favorite things to do were going to lazer shows and movies, patronizing underaged night clubs, and crashing Lincoln parties. According to senior, Nicole Parker, "Weekends are for hibernating, partying, and getting a grip." And getting a grip on reality usually takes place Sunday night . . . when we sit down at our desks to studiously assess Macbeth and write Geometry proofs. Monday morning, when the work begins, the next weekend is a common topic for classroom day-dreams.

SPORTS

"An activity requiring more or less vigorous bodily exertion and carried on according to some traditional form or set of rules," is the definition of 'sports' as printed in the dictionary. Sports at Wilson is much more than even Webster anticipated. Our athletes are not just members of a team. They're friends. Friends who take care of each other on and off the field. Being a member of a Wilson team is more than just an afterschool activity, it's more than just winning games. It's a life.

OUTSTANDING GRIDDERS

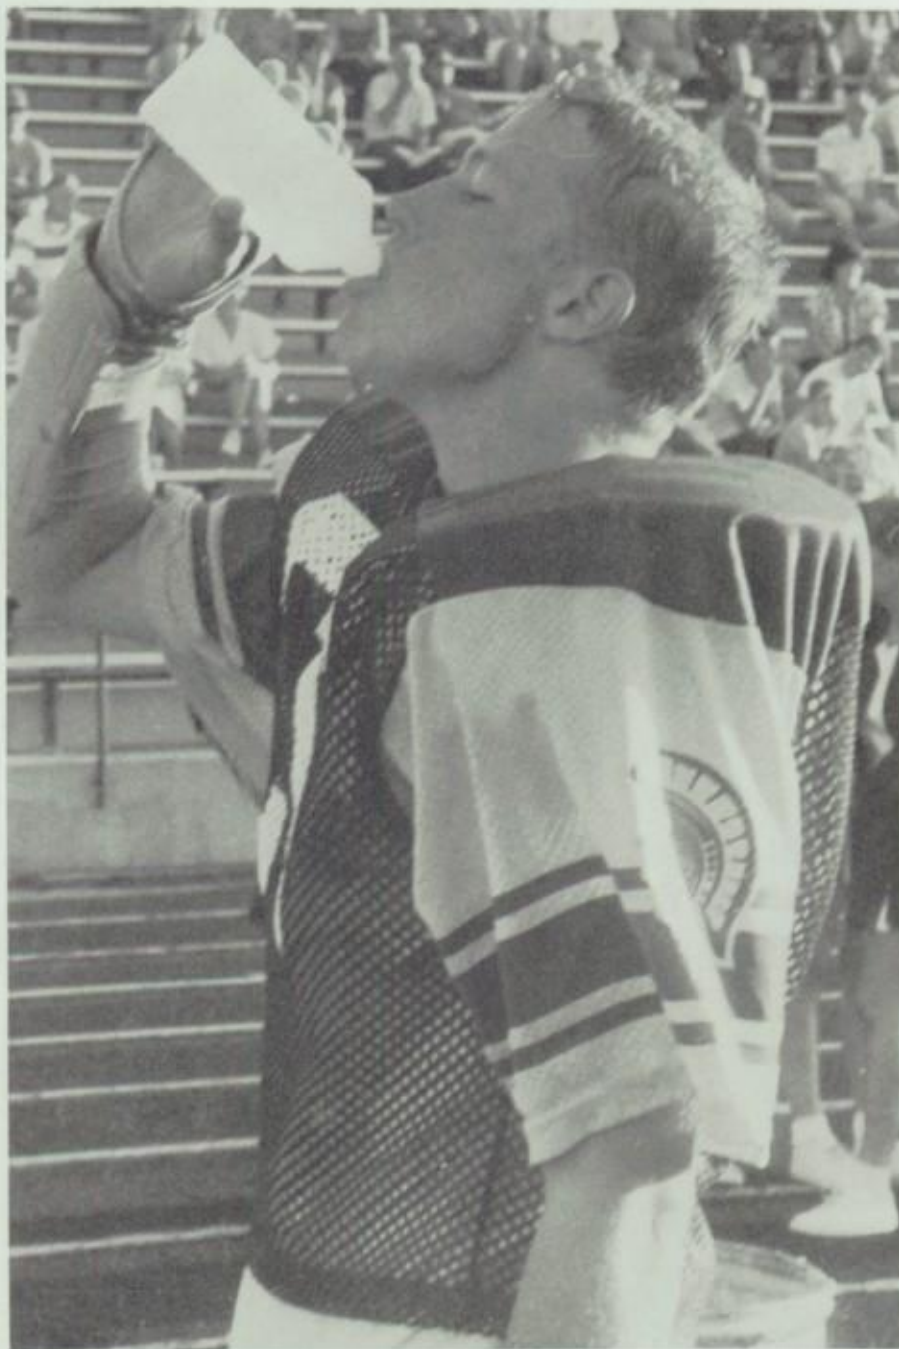

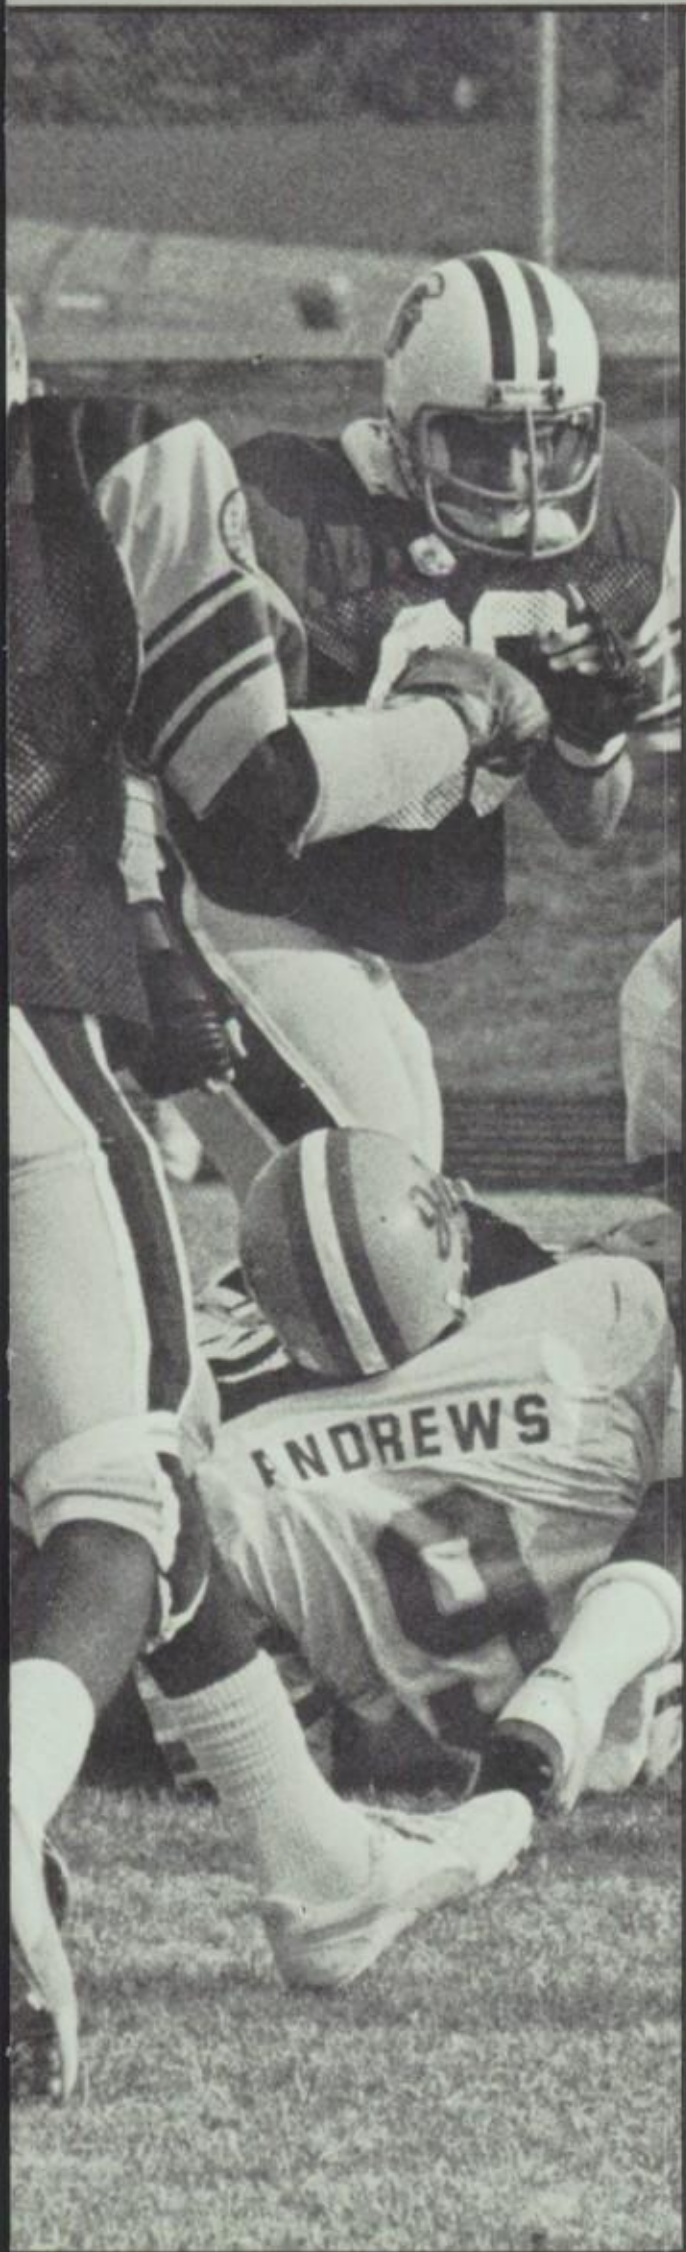

On every team there are athletes who are outstanding and excel in their game. This year many Varsity Football players were noticeably gifted. Among them, Ben Falco, Scott Brown, Jason Porter, Kent Nairn, Paul Meredith, Chris Compton, Dylan Davis, and John Willie all received honorable mention all-city. Chosen to represent Wilson on second team all-city were Jeff Baltas, Chris Shell, and David Carnell. Pat Magee was chosen as first team all-city. David Carnell was also chosen as a representative to the National Football Hall of Fame for scholar athletes. With above average talent on both defense and offense, players indicated that if both had jelled it would have been an incredible season.

A YEAR OF REBUILDING

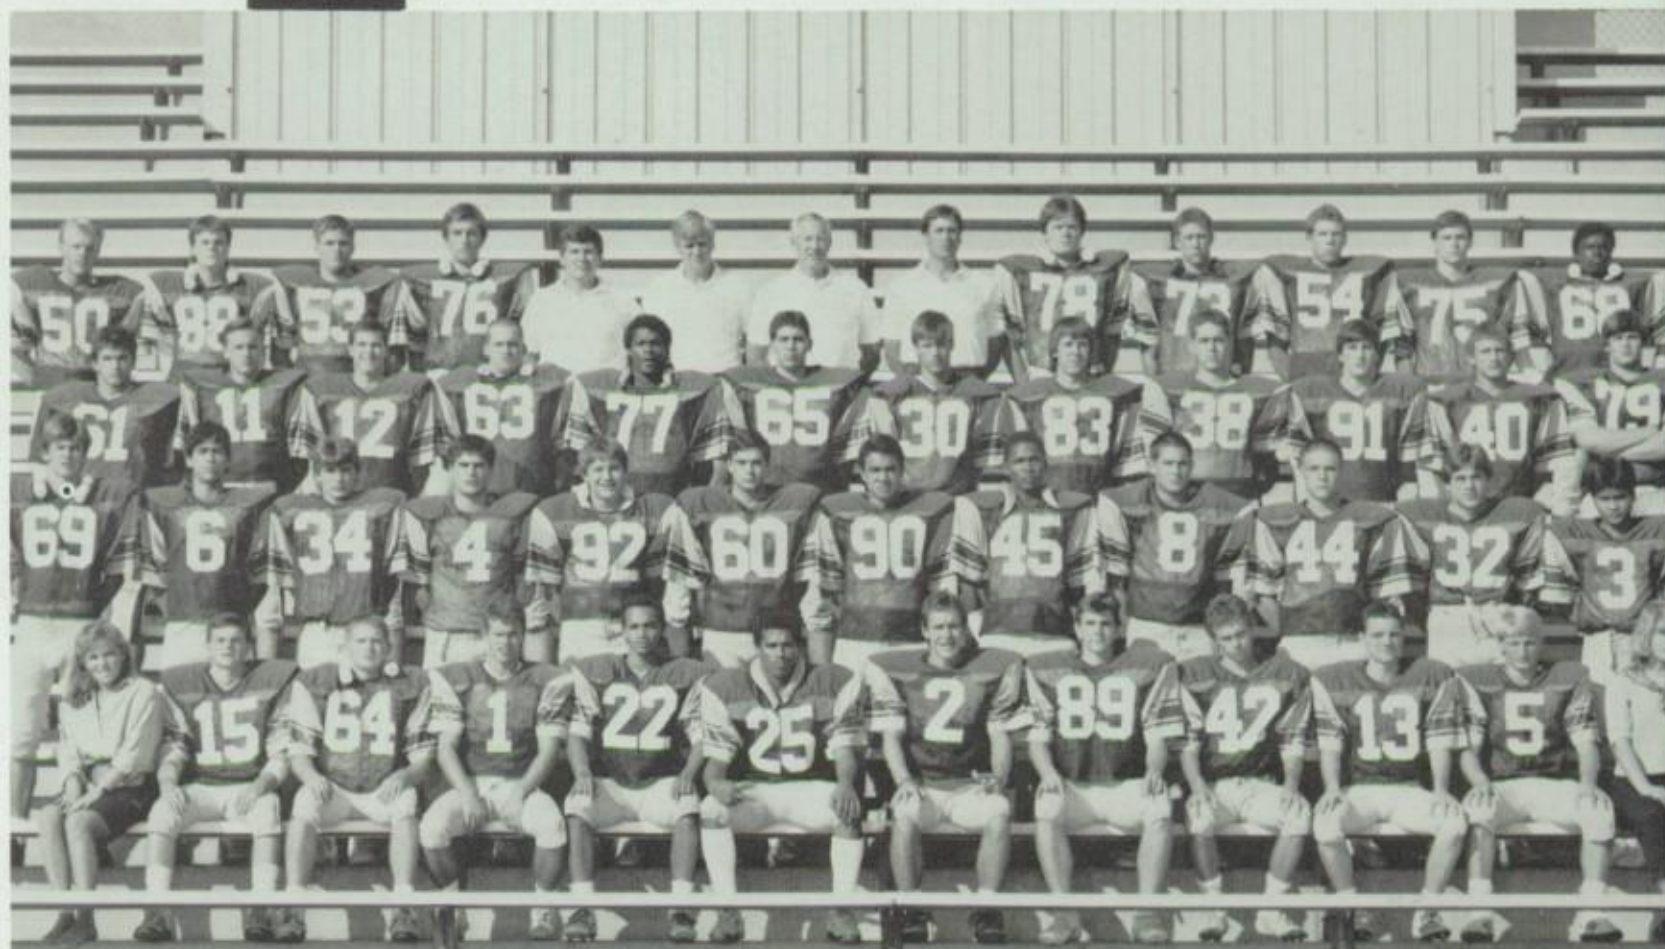

With a record of 4 wins and 5 losses, the Varsity Football Team placed fifth in the P.I.L. this year. Irrespective of a few minor injuries, the team played well and progressed during the season. Specific strengths were attributed to the good offensive line and quarterback, Kent Nairn. The head coach was Jerry Lyons and assistant coaches included Walt Looney, Jim MacDicken, and David Skille. "Although there were many younger players," commented Jerry Lyons, "we had a fair season". Pat Magee was chosen as most valuable, Ben Falco as outstanding offensive back, Chris Shell as outstanding offensive lineman, Jeff Baltas as outstanding defensive back, David Carnell as outstanding defensive lineman, Trent Jennis as most inspirational, and Chris Compton as most improved. The team captains were Kent Nairn, Pat Magee, and David Carnell.

DEFENSE BUYS SUCCESS

Sporting a 6-2 record, the J.V. Football team was ranked second in the P.I.L.-second only to Madison. "Madison hadn't had a touchdown scored against them. Our J.V.'s were the only team to beat them," explained coach Dave White. Beating Madison was one of the highlights of the season, including three shut-out games against Jefferson, Roosevelt, and Franklin. According to coach White, the season "started slowly but continued to improve; the most anyone scored on us was 28 points in our second game." The real strength came from the defensive team, which kept them in the game. Sean Edner was chosen most improved; Jeff Frahler and Pat Strickland tied as best hitter and Bernard Alderman as most inspirational. Offensive team captains were Tom Doblle and Erik Selliken. Defensive team captain was Jeremy Doblle. With the success of the J.V. Football team this year, many of the players show strong potential for the Varsity team next year.

Frosh players also blitzed their rivals. Their final record was an impressive eight wins and one tie.

CITY CHAMPIONS; THEY'RE HOT!

SOCCER STARS SURPRISE SPECTATORS

"I thought it would be a year of re-building," said men's varsity coach, Tom Unsicker. "Instead it was a year of strength. The team came together and was able to play defensively and score when necessary." David Case, the team captain, lead the team to the city championship by competitive example and leadership. Junior, Tom Boyd, was an asset to the team with his great speed and ability to read the other team's offense. Other outstanding players were sophomore, Ivan Forslund who had catlike reflexes, Michael Szczepanski (a Danish exchange student), Andy Barrett and Matt Patterson, both strikers. Senior, Andrew Barrett, stated that, "In the past years Lincoln has been the only really tough opposing team, but this year was unusual because Grant and Cleveland were very good, and our games against them were crucial. This helped pull the team together. The team was not successful because of the skill of just a few players. The success of the team was the result of every player's ability to play his position exceptionally well."

UNDAUNTED BY INJURIES

The Men's JV soccer team had a very inspiring season. "Although we had many injuries, we were able to fill key positions because of the depth of the team," stated coach Dennis Hartinger. The boys won all league games except against Lincoln and Grant. Many of the players will be competitive at the varsity level in 1987. The JV players are readying themselves by playing winter league soccer on a 19 and under team. Tom Unsicker, varsity coach, credits former Wilson player Eric Sturgis, for helping the program. "Sturgis inspired the JV and Varsity teams and we thank him."

The Freshman class once again produced a group of excellent soccer players. Coach Mike Mechling was very pleased with their performance this season. The team played 12 games total, both in the PIL and out of league. They won 11 games and tied Grant, for city championship. Key players were forwards Mike Boyd and Sol Sallos, Midfielder Greg Mar-ron, and Defense Bryan Clay and Andy Voytilla. Some Freshman are playing winter soccer in preparation for varsity tryouts next year.

SOCCER TEAM SHOWS ITS SPIRIT

Although numerous physical injuries brought disappointment to Wilson's Varsity Women soccer players and their fans this year, the team played very well this season. Wilson suffered only two losses, even though in several key games as many as six starting players were unable to play due to injury. The Varsity Women were dedicated and talented. According to coach Steve Melaichuk, "Their teamwork was exceptional; we never depended on one individual. Most of our players had been together for several years and really knew how to work as a unit." Although the Varsity Women did not continue into the state playoffs, Wilsonites will remember our players' effort and excellence in spite of the set backs.

JV SOCCER'S DOUBLE TROUBLE

1987 was a year to remember for Wilson's JVI girls soccer team; the talented JVI players' victories contributed to an undefeated season. The team's success was due to their teamwork and dedication. Many of the girls had played together last year and exhibited an efficient passing and scoring game. Long, determined practice sessions and excellent coaching by Sue Ballenger carried the team to victory. According to JVI player, Amie Hutchison, "We had a lot of very talented individuals, but more importantly, we worked together as a team."

Although the JVII team caught less attention than the larger JVI team, the group was equally energetic and dedicated to their sport. The team's freshman players made an impressive entrance into Wilson athletics and sophomore players enhanced their skill. The capable coaching of Brian Rose was appreciated by the entire JVII team.

Varsity teams are usually associated with the excitement and enthusiasm of high school sports; however, the junior varsity team activates our athletic future. The success of the 1987 JV girls' soccer teams portends a great 1988 for Wilson's soccer scene.

CONFIDENCE OVERCOMES SETBACKS

The 1986 Men's Cross Country team culminated the season with a solid 4 win and 5 loss record. According to head Cross-Country coach Larry "Bo-Bo" Allen, the team members were "undaunted by discouraging factors such as injury, lack of experience, and stiff competition."

The team utilized the long season to develop skill and build strength. "All team members improved their times and ran very well in the city meet," said Allen. Team captain Eric Berg finished 19th, and Aaron Chapman finished 7th, qualifying for the State Tournament.

Wilson's seven year record stands at six dual meet losses, five city championships, a 2nd in state and a 1st in state; it remains one of the best in Oregon. Allen stated optimistically, "The future looks good if our younger members develop as expected."

STRIDING TOWARDS SUCCESS

Wilson's JV Women's Cross Country Team was a powerhouse again. "They had a super season, and I was very pleased with all of them," exclaimed Coach John Mays.

This year Mr. Mays returned to Wilson to coach the JV girls. Their goal this year was to win city and set an eight and zero record for dual meets. The girls won city by a large margin, but were defeated by Lincoln in the regular season. Their final record was seven wins and one loss. "The loss to Lincoln does not bother me, because in this race our top JV girls were moved up to varsity," stated coach Mays.

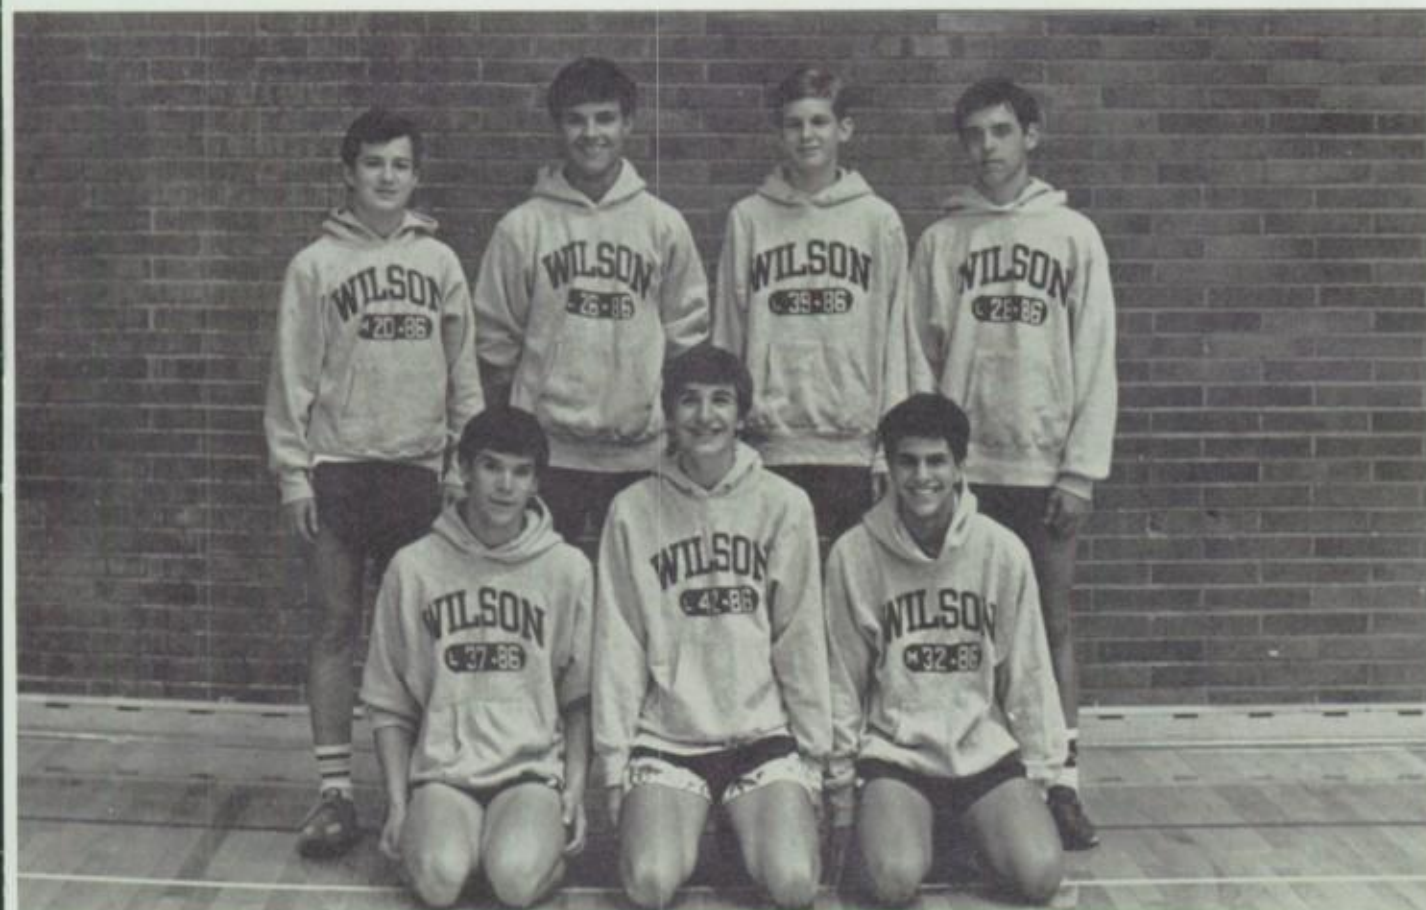

There were many outstanding runners this season including sophomores Lerion Gaylor, Kate McCormick, and junior, (a Cleveland transfer) Lisa Smith. The 86 JV team will be the varsity team to beat next year.

MAKING MAJOR MOVES

The dedication of the JV men's team initiated the strength necessary for an exceptional season. They raced around the competition with six wins and two losses in the P.I.L. Since the city meet was divided into Sophomores and Juniors, the men had to compete for individual spots rather than placing as a team. Rick Lawson, a pole-vaulter, placed third in the city for the Sophomores, and John Gassaway was fifth in the city.

Wilson's Freshman team began with only two runners and by the middle of the season had a complete team of five. The boys finished the season with three wins and five losses. Trevor Kitchen, John Phillips, and Jace Thompson were the three top runners. Although they did not win consistently, they had a good time running together and will continue to build toward a championship.

"In the beginning, I had hoped that we would repeat as city champions. This was our goal," stated coach, Larry Allen. The team had a good chance to take city, however illness denied runners their full potential. Nonetheless they kept fighting and maintained 8 wins, 1 loss, and second place in the city. They returned to state for the 5th consecutive year.

The team was comprised of three seniors, one sophomore, and three freshmen. Even though their dual meet record was broken by Lincoln with 34 wins, the Wilson 4 year record stands out at 37 wins and 1 loss. Elizabeth Biska and Carol Wawrukiewicz made it to first team all-city. Molly McLaughlin was on the second team. The entire team competed at state.

school's eight year championship reign. The players finished this fine season by competing in the quarterfinals match in the state tournament. This year's success was attributed to quickness and experience throughout the team. According to senior Kathleen Cox, "The team had a lot of depth; we had an experienced player in every position at all times. There were no weak spots." Wilson volleyball fans will be paying close attention to this capable crew in years to come.

It was a successful season for Wilson's freshman volleyball team as well. Although the players were new to Wilson athletics, they demonstrated spirit and commitment. LET'S GO TROJANS

What did juniors Kalley Aman, Nicolette Capistrano, Jennifer Horton, Kelly Manning, and Nhieu Nguyen, and seniors Chantal Corcos, Susan Hawk, and Erin Lagesen do after school every day this fall? They didn't go home. The Fall Varsity Rally began work immediately following their selection in April 1986. They initiated fundraisers, including a dance; and a cheerleading clinic which elicited a positive response from the community. During daily doubles, the rally practiced the same hours as other teams and gave all fall varsity teams popsicles. Throughout the season the rally cheered for all varsity teams at 27 different games. The rally also painted posters, planned pep assemblies, and competed against other rallies, consistently placing within the top 12 rally squads in Oregon.

SPIRITED SOPHS

Effective and eager, the 1986-87 Junior Varsity Rallies were essential in building underclass spirit.

Tolerating rain, low temperatures, and mud-throwing football players, Fall JV Rally cheered at every Wilson JV football game. Sometimes they were the only fans present. Squad members Shannon Calheim, Gabriella Cosgrave, Debbie Doyle, Karina Haines, and Shannon Stice also cheered at some JV soccer games, and were almost always available to help Fall Varsity Rally warm up the crowds, organize assemblies, and build pyramids. Among JV's other duties were sign making, flag raising, and fund raising, which they accomplished with a carwash.

Those on Winter JV Rally — Melissa Hammond, Kari Hirschland, Rebecca Hom, Michelle Milstein, and Kari Steinbock — made their debut in the two fall pep assemblies. They began their season in December, and worked hard providing support to the frequently forgotten JV basketball teams. Their long November practice session produced results; JV Winter Rally's performances were polished and perfected.

VARSITY TEAM EXCEEDS EXPECTATIONS

A year dedicated to building and strength, provided necessary experience and a winning season. With a record of 16-6, Coach Beachell attributed their success to the teams speed and defensive ability. The men's varsity team not only had a successful season, but played better than expected. The team captured third in city and was expected not to make state. "Any time in the season that players exceed expectations, they do very well", commented Beachell. This year the team consisted of younger players; three sophomores, four juniors, and five seniors. Due to the number of younger players, Beachell expects next year to be better. Summing up the season, junior Greg Eves commented, "It took a lot of hard work to get where we are and it was worth it".

The coach carried seventeen men (fifteen sophomores and two juniors). The evident talent on the J.V. Basketball team will be welcomed by the varsity coach next year. They had depth, quickness, ability to play well together, and balance of scorers; all necessary components of a good team. Injuries were not a factor this year. They played every team in the PIL twice, a total of eighteen games, and lost two games. Key players were Tom Sandt, Anthony Lowery, Tim Lawrence, Terry Tims and Gene Williams, Jason Rohr, Jose Garcia and Andre Channel were also leading players.

The freshman team could also boast a successful season. They beat every PIL Team except Benson and finished third in the PIL. The only major injury was a sprained ankle that kept Curtis Willis out of one game. Key players who will contribute to the junior varsity and varsity teams are Dominix Parker, Curtis Willis, Ryan Ferguson, Lauren Dawkins, Greg Marron, Shawn Struckmeier and Chris Shell.

Success was in the cards this season for the Varsity Girls Basketball team. Surrendering only to Madison, Marshall, and Jefferson, the players pooled their skills and combined their efforts to become co-city champions. Coach James MacDicken attributes the team's multiple victories to the supportive leadership of team captains Jennifer Ballenger and Milena Novy. "They were also an unselfish, balanced team, and well-organized from the beginning," he said. Their teamwork and devotion paid off, unfortunately they suffered an early loss in the state tournament ending their hope for post-season play. With the loss of four senior players, next year should be a season of re-building. Coach MacDicken was content with the team's performance, commenting, "We didn't do too badly."

Wilson's girls JV basketball team was definately on the ball this season. Coached by Glenna DeBoy, the girls were undefeated in the PIL and accomplished a 20-2 record overall. The team worked smoothly on the court with each member bringing her particular strength to every game; this diversity was the key to the girl's successful record. According to DeBoy, the team's greatest advantage was "balance; they were a very well-balanced team." This outstanding performance by the JV girls will make them athletes to watch in their future seasons at Wilson.

The Freshman girls started their high school basketball careers with an impressive season this year. Under the direction of coach Kurt Teigan, the girls fared extremely well in the PIL competition. As a beginning team, the freshman worked to develop and perfect skills in shooting and passing. Their dedicated practice was a chief reason for their success. GRAPPLING FOR GLORY

LEADERS OF THE MAT

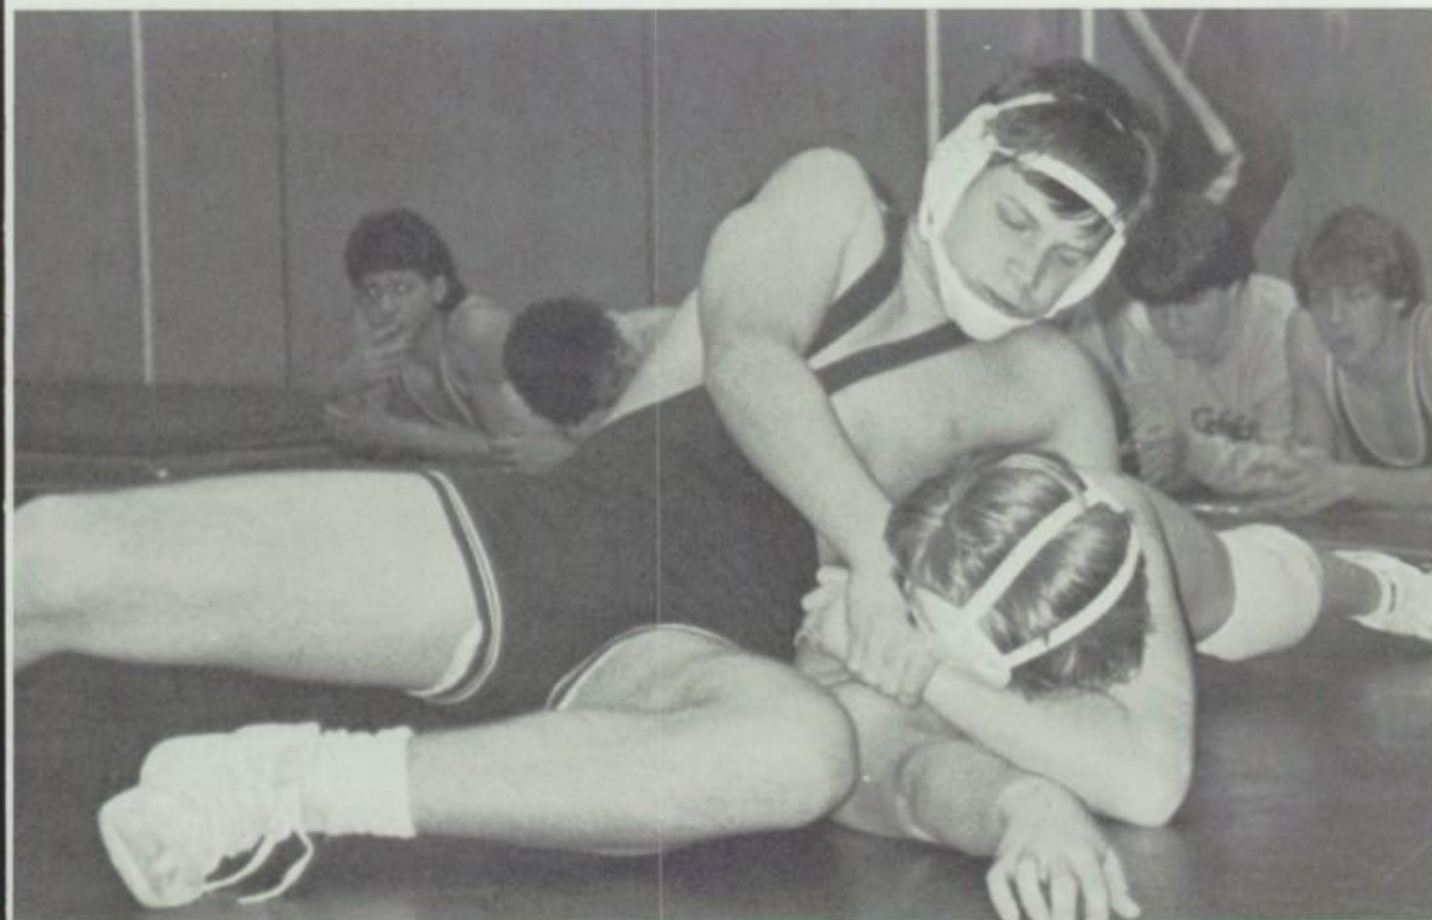

Strong leadership and support initiated a successful season for Wilsons' varsity wrestling team. Although the pre-season was discouraging for some, "The team pulled together and developed into a competitive wrestling team," said coach Mike Mechling. Varsity team captains were Jim Strickland and Ja-sen Leuy. The most consistent winners included Tom Boyd, Thad Carlson, and Jim Strickland. This year the varsity team included many underclassmen. Sophomores, Even Olson, Adam Carol, and Dylan Teguard; and freshmen, Matt Coleman and Ryan Yuzon, showed excellent improvement and look forward to a winning season next year. With the experience of younger wrestlers, next year promises to register many "pins" for the matmen. Leather Stohrs, Thad Carlson, Tom Boyd and Dylan Teguard all placed in the district meet; Jim Strickland placed first in district and represented the P.I.L. at State.

PUGNACIOUS PALS

With an excellent group of underclassmen wrestlers, Wilson's junior varsity and freshmen teams had a beneficial season and are looking forward to an even better one next year. According to assistant coach Doug Stensrud, "The teams consisted of many younger kids, and the team was constantly building." The young wrestlers struggled during the pre-season but as the teams began to gain experience, winning matches became much more frequent. Practices were held every day, and gave both teams the experience needed. Coached by Ken Dorsey, the freshmen had a good season with much improvement.

FISH OUTTA WATER

1987 was a splashing success for Wilson's two varsity swim teams. Both teams, coached by Bill Roberts, finished the season by placing second in city competition. Neither team was able to defeat Lincoln this year; however, the women's team led by captains Jane Forbes and Jen Noles gave the Cardinals several good races, coming within a few points of defeating them at two regular season meets.

The men's team faced tough competition this season from Benson and Grant, but managed to swim their way to success under the leadership of co-captains Seth Tichenor and Jon Laine. Seth and Sean Tichenor both qualified for state competition; the women were represented by freshman Renata Adamidov. Since neither team lost many seniors this year, Wilson swimmers can look forward to a wet season next year as well.

DEDICATED DANCERS DAZZLE

LET US ENTERTAIN YOU

Moving to the music of "Fabulous Feet" from the play "The Tap Dance Kid," the forty Wilson Trojanes tapped, leaped, and kicked their way to success. Traditionally dominated by upperclassmen, the dance team boasted a number of freshmen and sophomores this year. "With a young team, there's an abundance of energy and enthusiasm," said line member captain Julie Gillaspy. Led by new choreographer Carol Odin and with many fresh ideas, moves, and costume plans, the team performed their state routine at the football Jamboree in the Civic Stadium and at the PIL Fall Festival at Marshall High School. They were awarded a trophy for kicks. They also danced at the Coliseum for the winter classic, at many home football and basketball games, and in city competition, where they took second place. Considering the hours of practice every morning before school, senior Janet Johnson said, "All the hard work pays off. I've learned alot about self-discipline and working as a whole unit, a team."

TAKING IT IN STRIDE. Stephie Sloane, Aisha Harley, and Shoshana Epstien lead the dance team onto the football field for a weekend dress-rehearsal before performing at several football games.

"HUG US!" The Trojanes appear to be waiting to accept huge bear hugs; actually they're practicing a routine for future competition.

ACADEMICS

"The dedication of highly qualified educators and the level of parent support, as well as the students' desire to get more out of education, contribute to the dynamic process of the academic program at Wilson," stated Don Muno, curriculum vice principal. The mod system allows students to utilize the many resources available at our school. It also promotes programs like the tutorial system in which students help other students in their studies. Fine Arts Week is also made possible by the mod system. In the words of Don Muno, "The key to Wilson's rich opportunity in education is the outstanding people."

Students did more than coast through required classes this year. "It's very exciting how many were involved in extracurricular activities," said Nick Hanches, head of the Social Studies Department. Hanches was referring to clubs like Model United Nations, Close Up and Law Day. Many who participated in these programs were able to gain firsthand experience in dealing with the world of government. Involvement in elective courses increased comparatively. Students who wished to probe other areas of interest crowded into psychology, archeology, Modern Europe and Sociology classes. Noticeable interest in these subject areas indicate continued motivation toward excellence and success.

SCIENCE

IT ALL WEIGHS OUT. Freshman Justine Keough measures the weight of a cylinder on a balance.

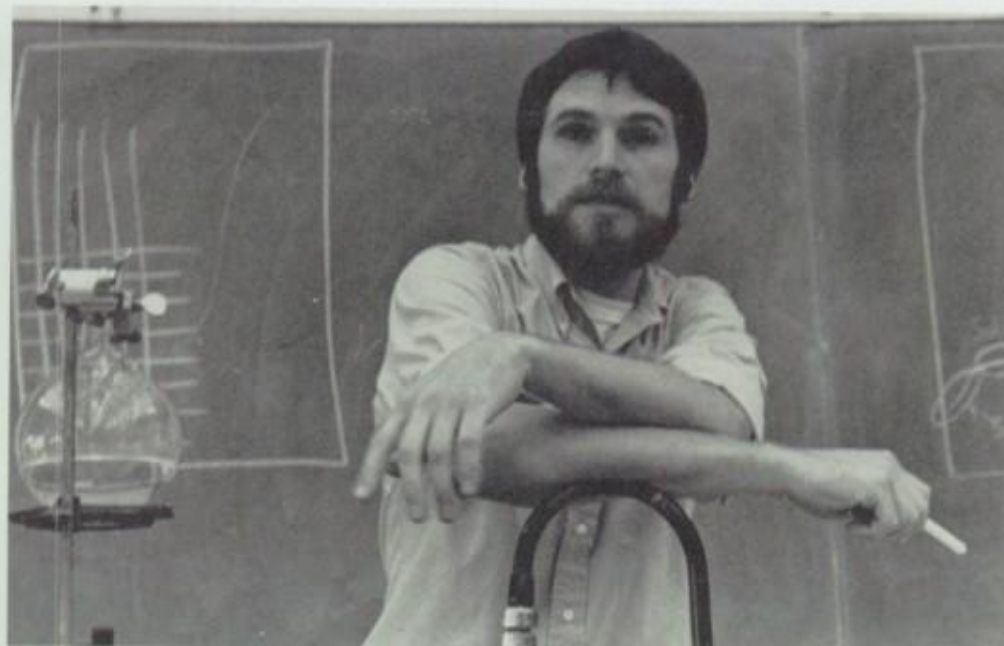

NEW ADDITIONS

Explosions, fires in classrooms, shrinking marshmallows- where can you go to experience all this? The science department. Much of the activity has been centered around remodeling the classrooms. "In one way or another, five classrooms will be renovated. Anything from adding a new sink to a new science room", stated department head, Len Cooper. Future plans include new classrooms for George Penk and Curtis Guthrie. "The science department is always accessing and reacting to the needs of the student body", explained Guthrie. This was a contributing factor to the needs of the student body", explained Guthrie. This was a contributing factor to the changes and additions made this year.

MATH

SUMMING IT UP

Manipulating numbers isn't everyone's idea of fun, but math is necessary, whether it is basic accounting computations or complex engineering formulas. This year, around 1780 students (some took more than one course) filled the Wilson classes. The math department's goals were varied. According to department chair Walter Looney, "Math teachers aimed to remove distracting students from the H-courtyard, teach "discreet math" (useful skills), and obtain another computer lab." Jack Bertell added, "We also would like air conditioning in the computer rooms."

With the patient and progressive teaching style of the Wilson math staff, students could be confident of the complete arithmetical education needed to face an increasingly technological world.

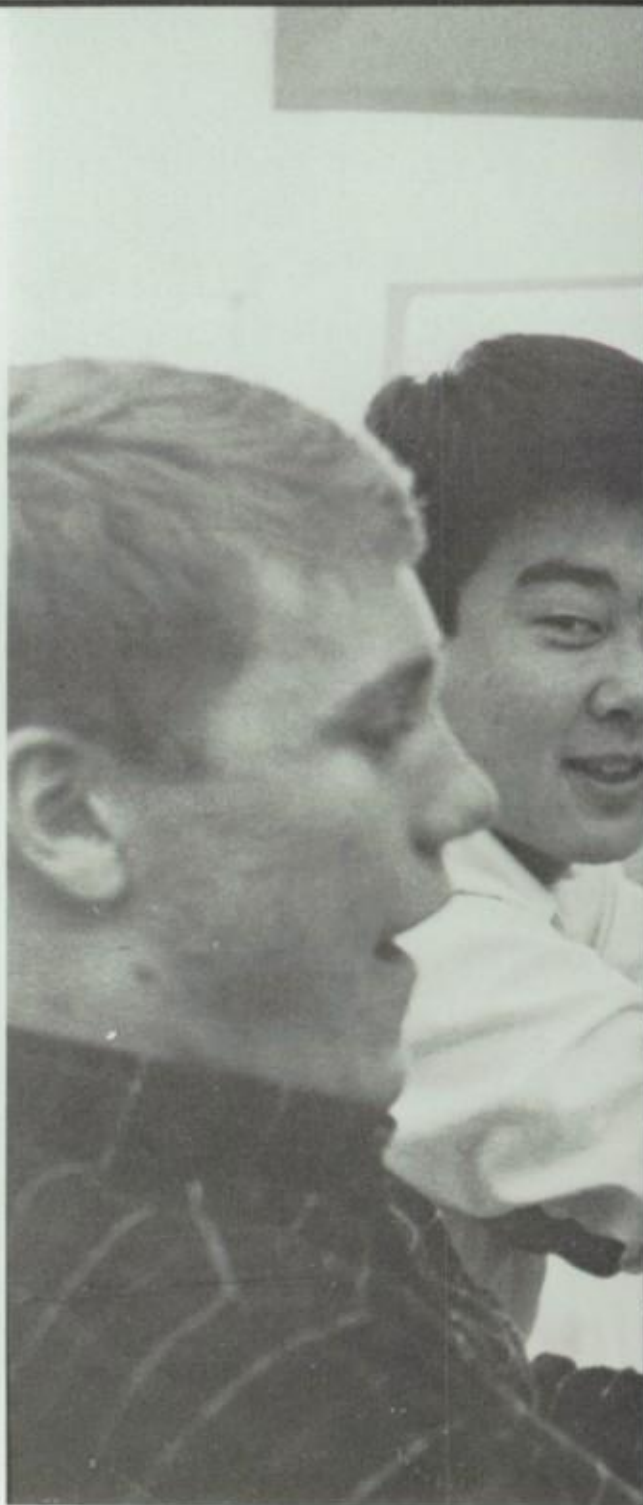

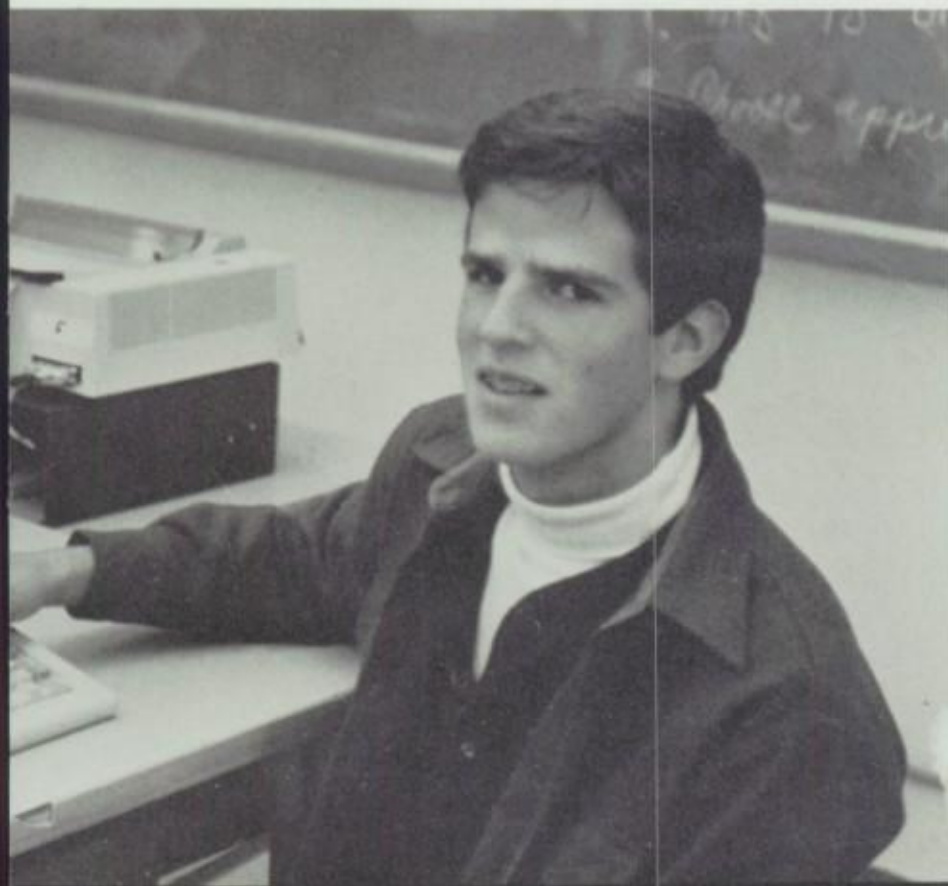

SO "R" EQUALS . . . Freshman Kristi Winfree reviews her exam with Mr. Mechling. Math teachers were usually available and willing to help students untangle difficult equations.

DIVERSITY OFFERED

The Wilson Art Department attracted many students eager to test their creative skills. A wide variety of classes were offered including pottery, drawing, painting, photography, calligraphy, and graphic design. Each student was expected to produce an art portfolio to be analyzed at the culmination of each term. Three new Pentax K1000 cameras were purchased for the photography program. "This year the photography classes drew a record number of students," claims photography teacher Tom Unsicker. Instructors included, Department Head Richard Voll, Larry Allen, Tom Pileggi and Tom Unsicker.

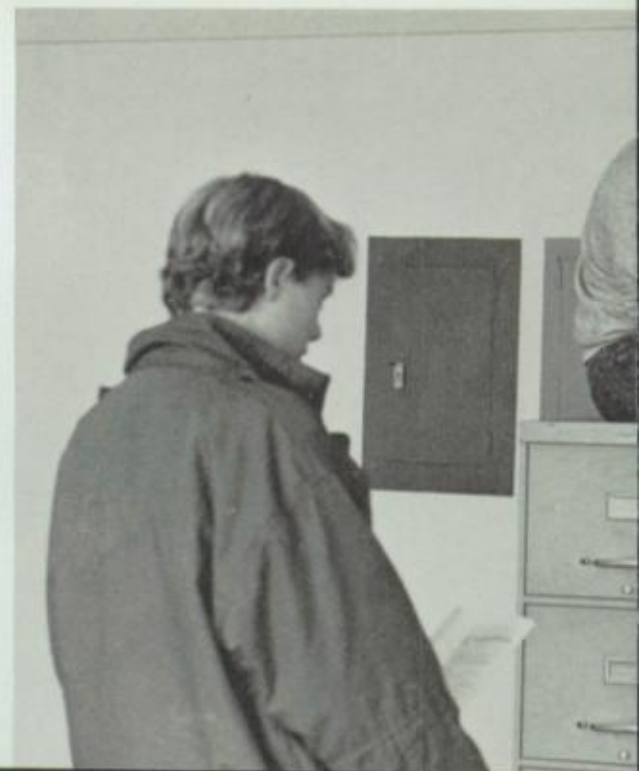

DRAMA

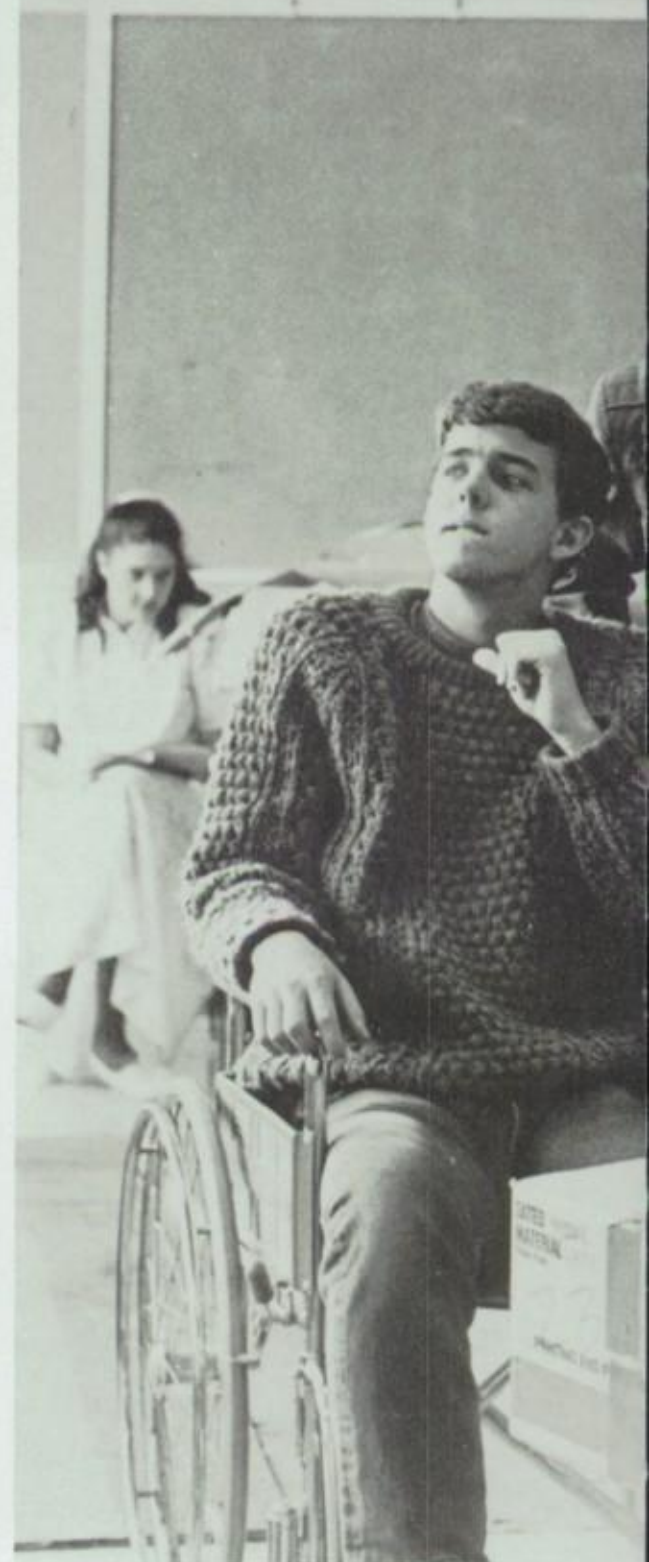

SO REAL, Juniors Meagan Crabtree and Julie Venables act out a scene for their class.

MERELY ACTING

Where can you go to act out your frustration and release energy? A drama class, of course. There are five drama classes this year, including beginning, intermediate, advanced and one directing class. According to Julie Accuardi, the student actors "respect what they're doing and learn from each other". Activities sponsored by the drama department included a costume sale, held before Halloween to help raise money for the Thespians, and a play directed by senior Chantal Corcos. Drama classes are a good opportunity for students to gain experience and have fun at the same time.

MUSIC DEPARTMENT RIGHT ON KEY

Whether they were singing in the rain or marching in the sunshine, Wilson students were fully involved in this year's excellent and diverse music program. Vocal students formed six separate choral groups including a barbershop quartet and a full concert choir. Instrumental musicians involved themselves in classical quartets, jazz ensembles, an outstanding marching band and many other musical groups. The energy and commitment of Wilson musicians earned them honor and recognition this year-however, the department emphasized individual improvement rather than competitive playing. According to Greg McKelvey, instrumental music director, "Last year we won several awards and trophies. Some people might think that our goal this year is to win even more. It isn't; as always our goal is to keep improving and play as well as we possibly can." The fine performance by 1987 student musicians is evidence that McKelvey's goal has been realized.

MORNING MELODIES Early rising marching band members take to the field for a little pre-class practice. This dedicated group of musicians put in many hours of rehearsal outside of their scheduled class time.

SHOP N' HOME EC.

KNOWLEDGE FOR LIVING

The Industrial Ed. Department maintained significant progress this year. A computer-aided drafting program introduced students to state-of-the-art equipment. To bolster the graphic design classes, four new enlargers were purchased for the darkroom.

Eat your heart out Julia Child! For the first time Science of Foods was offered by the Home Ec. Department. Students in the class could enroll for a science credit rather than just an elective credit. Other classes offered by the department included Interior Design and Child Development classes, which enabled students to obtain first-hand experience with young children.

Students participating in either Shop or Home Ec. classes were introduced to valuable, practical lifelong skills.

INTENSITY Linda Eidemiller, junior, works cautiously to scratch out a negative. Taught by Larry "Bobo" Allen, graphic arts was a popular elective.

SPECIAL ED.

SHARING FRIENDSHIP Alene Corno and David Holmes know that working together gets the job done quicker.

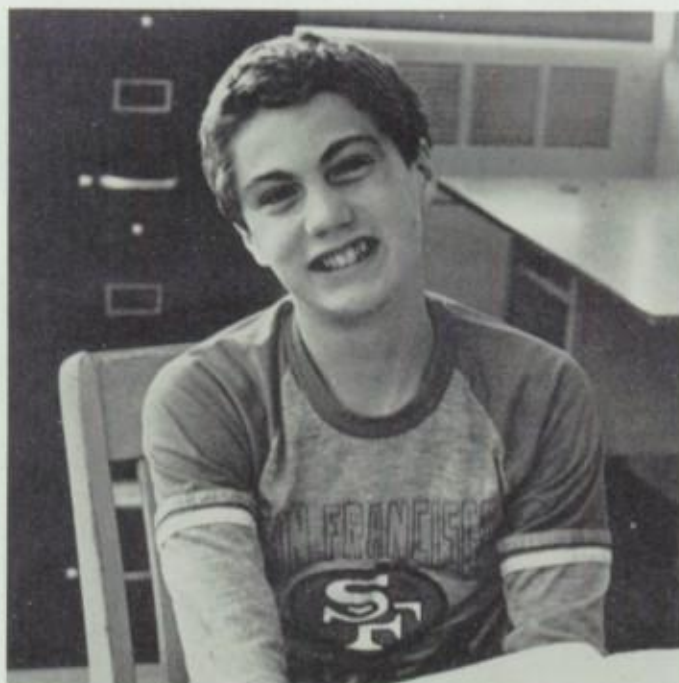

DETERMINATION

Some of Wilson's more determined students were the members of the special education program. According to the department head Jerode Dean, the philosophy of the special education classes included success in everything attempted. Classes emphasized work preparation; students obtained on-the-job experience at local businesses such as Colortile, and in our own school, delivering audio-visual equipment and maintaining the cafeteria, among other responsibilities. The highlight of the year was the Special Olympics. Students devoted energy and time preparing for this important event. The creed of the Special Olympics exemplified the firm determination of these students this year. "Let me win, but if I cannot win, let me be brave in the attempt."

GUIDING LIGHTS

CRUISING WITH COMPUTERS

A new, updated computer system helped Wilson counselors get through the paperwork and into the classroom quickly and efficiently this year. Counselors aimed for closer student-counselor relations with sessions on Career Development and college planning both in and out of the classrooms. Computerized freedom from busy-work also gave counselors more time to concentrate on their more difficult cases. According to Head Counselor Jean White, these include students with home troubles, discipline problems, and learning difficulties. Why do counselors struggle against these overwhelming situations and continue working to help us succeed? In the words of Ms. White, "When you can help turn someone's life around for the better it's certainly very rewarding ... it's a personal satisfaction."

ADMINISTRATION

I'M AFRAID WE'LL HAVE TO SUSPEND . . . Administrative assistant Crooks aids Vice Principal Stanton in a stern evaluation of student attendance records.

RUNNING THE SHOW

Due to the surprise retirement of Stan Blair, the Wilson administration faced a major change this year: a new principal. The administrative staff welcomed Eugene Douthit from Grant High School. Douthit promoted changes which he felt were subtle but important. Responsibilities were delegated differently than in years past; he organized a standardized rotational process for evaluation of teachers. Douthit stated ambitiously, "My goal is to become knowledgeable about all aspects of Wilson life."

On a typical day they arrive at 5:30 A.M. to open the building, make sure it's clean and monitor the halls for trash. A second shift arrives at 2:00 P.M. to close the school, sometimes not leaving until 1:00 A.M. Most of the staff enjoys working at Wilson, although they all agree that students could help by clearing their trays and not littering. After all we live in this place 6 hours a day, and hopefully our homes don't look like the cafeteria.

BUSINESS N' RESOURCE CENTERS

ANY NEW BUSINESS?

Thanks to new developments in staffing and equipment, 1987 was not just business as usual for Wilson students enrolled in marketing, accounting, typing and management classes. This year, the business department received several new IBM computers which helped to enrich classroom training at every level. Most importantly, students were exposed to sophisticated software packages such as LOTUS 1-2-3 and WORDPERFECT by IBM. These advanced level programs are rarely found in high schools and offer students a unique chance to experience state-of-the-art business equipment. According to department head Edna Washburn, students have much to gain from business classes. "People need to think beyond the 'little secretary' mentality . . . Basic business skills will be vital to you in years to come."

RESOURCE CENTERS

A quiet atmosphere where students can study and have access to volume after volume of books is accessible in any one of the resource centers at Wilson. The resource centers include the library, English resource center (ERC), Social Studies resource center (SSRC), and the college career center (CCC). According to Mr. Wirtanen, the library contains approximately 30,000 volumes and has at least one volume of everything the other resource centers have. Besides the vast variety of books, the resource centers offer students access to computers, video equipment and audio-visual materials. The CCC offers students a place to acquire information on colleges and meet representatives from various schools. The ERC is used as the tutoring center where students can go to get help in their classes. The Wilson resource centers are an excellent place to go for personal enrichment.

PUTTING IT ON PAPER

Keeping current wasn't always easy when exams, homework, and watching "The Cosby Show" were about the only activities for which one had time. Fortunately, the Statesman and Jr. Troyan staffs knew what was happening. In their publications, the 1986-87 school year was chronicled through social, athletic, academic and political occurrences.

Jr. Troyan staff began work in the summer of 1986, selling ads to local businesses before competing yearbooks made their sales. They collected approximately 6000 dollars in total ad sales. Juniors Jill Beatty, Becky Benson, Jenny Horton and Kelly Manning were among the leaders, accounting for well over a thousand dollars. During the remainder of the year, the staff learned the mechanics of making a yearbook. They tested their skills by producing the Spring Supplement.

Statesmen, five time winner of the Pacemaker award, continued its successful publication with Jennie Acker as Editor. Statesmen provided articles about all aspects of life at Wilson. These included political issues, humor and sports.

"The goal of the National Honor Society is to recognize people who have been committed to academic excellence throughout their high school careers." Proclaimed President Christine Petty. Directed by Petty, Supervisor Nancy Lee and officers, Vice President Kristi Baack, Secretary Sara Heil, and Treasurer Erin Lagesen, the organization participated in service projects. These included a book drive for Convalescent homes. In the Spring after release of second semester grades, the club screened and initiated juniors who exemplified the groups standards. The qualities required for membership were a 3.5 GPA or above, and involvement in the school and community.

"AND CALL THEM TOO" National Honor Society members, Kristi Baack, and Erin Lagesen review plans for the upcoming book collection, discussing which organizations will be the beneficiaries of the clubs efforts.

And Intercultural

PEP CLUB

With spirit and enthusiasm, members of the Pep club supported Wilsons athletic teams. Although there were only 15 members, they claimed to be as loud as a crowd of 300. Under the new advisement of Anna Roehr, the members attended most games and demonstrated their enthusiasm by making signs to promise competitive outings.

CULTURED CLUB MEMBERS

This year the Intercultural connection held meetings covering many topics through slide shows and, when possible guest speakers. Countries included Africa, France, and Russia. Including smaller, less-known countries, advisor Anna Roehr expressed a keen interest in Greece. Members gained greater knowledge and insight into these countries.

MU ALPHA THETA, PHILOSOPHY

PHILOSOPHY CLUB

Plato? Hegel? Though they weren't Wilsonites, some students met them this year via the Philosophy Club. Wishing to expand beyond school resources, the club sponsored a lecture series which brought a variety of guest speakers to Wilson from Reed College and other institutions. Said Andrew Barrett, who led the group with Stephanie Bell, "The increased turn out is encouraging. We hope to get some good discussions, and debate those poignant issues affecting all of us."

MU ALPHA THETA

Deriving Pi is a formidable task, but it did not frighten the 1986-87 members of Mu Alpha Theta, the honorary math club. Students gained membership by excelling on a quelling half-hour test. Co-President Carroll Wawrukiewicz, who shared her position with Nils Jacobson, remarked, "This year we tried to make Mu Alpha Theta less an honorary society and more an active club."

LEGAL LOGISTICS

Educated students in the intricacies of democracy and government. Youth legislature gives members the preparatory opportunity to experience the legislative process; passing a bill to become a law. The several meetings culminated the trip to Salem February 19th and the 21st. Sponsored by the YMCA, students became more aware of the dynamics of our system by writing bills and attending committee meetings. Blake Evans was elected youth governor and went on to campaign for speaker of the house.

Quill And Scroll

QUILL AND SCROLL

Quill and Scroll provides recognition for students involved with the publication of either Wilson's Veridian, Statesman or Trojan. In order to be eligible, students must submit an application, rank in the top third of their class, maintain a good G.P.A., have worked on a publication for at least one year, and be recommended by their advisor. Rob Melton hoped to present several guest speakers by the year's end. Quill and Scroll is a nationally recognized society. "Quill and Scroll is a positive reinforcement for diligent effort," said member Britney Gress. Britney was well acquainted with diligence — she was the 1987 Trojan copy editor!

MODEL U.N.

Many students wishing to expand their knowledge of international relations found the perfect opportunity through Model United Nations. According to club advisor Nancy Lee, there was, "a wide cross-section of members this year; the group was more multi-cultural in terms of Wilson population than in years past." Students were assigned to specific countries and worked preparing for a state conference in Eugene, under the direction of President Ben Lenhart and Vice President Julia McGinnis. Members attended weekly meetings and participated in role playing and other educational activities. "It was a tribute to the motivation of Wilson students."

ing while members Michelle Heald, Molly Shmitz, and Vice President Julie McGinnis offer aid.

Human Relations, Key,

HUMAN RELATIONS

The fifteen members of Human Relations, led by President, Kim Figuera, Treasurer and Secretary Mychelle Knight, and Vice President, Ginger Wilson, worked to draw Wilson students from all social groups together. They planned a dance and sold carnations on Valentine's Day to earn money. In February the club members surprised their advisor, Mr. Mays, with an appreciation dinner. Over the course of the year the club's unity grew.

KEYED-UP

Max Headrom is not regularly associated with assisting the needy, although this year, the computerized TV host helped Wilson's Key club bring in funds for their service activities. The club sold T-shirts imprinted with an image of Headroom to earn approximately $325.00. Senior Kirsten Witter, President, was pleased with the sales success, and remarked, "Things are going well this year." Popularity in Max Headroom lead to the creation of a tv series said to be the most innovative idea in television broadcasting since Moonlighting.

Veridian, And Fine Arts

ART SMART

Each Wilson Fine Arts Week
Has been a success,
But that of 1987
Was one of the best.
Erin Lagesen, Stephanie Bell
These were the co-chairs.
They helped to organize
A real, cultural fair.
For Wilsonites who wrote
Or were involved in art,
Veridian literary magazine
Was in a class apart.
Jennifer Collins and Acker
Were editors of the book,
And when it was ready,
It was well worth a look.
So Wilson students did the job
To culturize the Trojan mob.

SPEECH TEAM

The Speech team reigns as one of the most consistently misunderstood teams in the school. People think we have to speak in front of hundreds of people when competing," said Kelley Krieger. "We do compete with up to 40 or 50 people, but never have to speak in front of more than 9 to 10 others." The team's 28 members participated in a number of city meets at various Portland High Schools throughout the year. They also attended weekend state wide tournaments at U of O,

McMinnville high school, OSU, and Lewis & Clark. "It takes a lot of dedication, motivation, and hard work to sacrifice a whole weekend to competition," said Chantal Corcos, "But most of us feel it's rewarding and worthwhile."

And Interact

COMPUTATION CONGREGATION

With the encouragement of advisor, Verle Smith, the computer club was more active than in the past years. The main event for the members was an annual computer contest held on the east coast. Five members were able to attend the competition. This was the third year that Wilson has been involved in the contest.

INTERACT CLUB HAS ACTION

"We want to branch out and make contact with high school students in other areas, while providing service where it is needed," said Ginger Wilson, President of Interact Club. Sponsored by the local Rotary club, the group adopted two projects. Locally, they volunteered to clean and bake at the Ronald McDonald House. On the International level they supported the Polio Plus project.

PATHFINDERS

What do you do if you want to explore the coast, mountains, and rivers of Oregon with friends and classmates? Join the wilderness club. Under the guidance of Biology teacher and experienced outdoors-woman Karen Kelly, the members of this club had the opportunity to go cross-country skiing, white water rafting, and climb Mount Hood, among other activities. "Many students don't have the chance to participate in those activities with their families," said Kelly. "Through the Wilderness Club, they can explore the outdoors and become more familiar with the land around them." This club was best suited for those with an adventuresome spirit. As Thoreau stated, man can transcend to a higher level of peace and awareness through nature.

high students, and raised money for MDA through a bowl-a-thon in which Wilson raised approximately $600, the second highest among four schools. Students learned much about marketing and related activities, while enjoying themselves.

Junior State, KWHS TV

JUNIOR STATERS KEEP CURRENT

Wilson's newest current events club, Junior State, provides students interested in national and international affairs the opportunity to debate about issues that are of importance. Originally based in Washington, the program was introduced to Wilson and welcomed enthusiastically last year. The group travelled to a convention in Seattle in November and continued to meet intermittently for discussion and debate. Claimed advisor Bob Larsen, "I leave most of the organization up to the president, Besty Jubitz."

The club quickly established itself as a successful activity. Said Junior Tracy Bocarde, "Jr. State gives you insight into a lot of issues that you wouldn't receive from simply watching the news." Most members concurred that the trip to Seattle was a news worthy item.

Jim Apalado advised the eleven eager members of the television workshop. The class provided services, producing T.V. shows both in a studio environment and with a portable unit. Bike, Chess,

ROAD WARRIORS

Advised by chemistry teacher George Penk, the bike club allows students the opportunity to participate in half-day bicycle rides. These are between fifteen and forty miles in length. Local rides included trips to Mary S. Young Park and Willamette Park. The only requirements were a working bicycle and enthusiasm for riding. A few members are competitive cyclists, however, most prefer the planned recreational trips.

THE RIGHT MOVES

Working under pressure was no problem for the Wilson Chess Club. Divided into "A" and "B" teams, members practiced regularly throughout the fall and winter for scheduled competitions. Coached by Mr. Richard Roy, the teams' stringent workouts in the CCC provided the strategies necessary to counter opponents plots in Northwest tournaments. The "A" team maintained an unblemished record.

and Ski Club

AMBITIOUS SKIERS HIT THE SLOPES

The Ski Club, organized by Health Teacher Mr. Lyons, offers inexperienced skiers and students who do not have access to snow a chance to hit the slopes on a regular basis. Bus transportation, rental ski equipment, lift tickets, lessons and other happy skiers are all included in the package for a reasonable fee. Forty-five students participated in the club this year, and six trips were planned in the months of December, January, and February at Mt. Hood Meadows. The Ski Club offered students good recreational skiing without the pressures of competitive team racing.

SLIDING INTO VICTORY

This year the Wilson ski team boasted 32 members; varsity mens, varsity womens and two JV teams. Racers trained every Tuesday night at Timberline and raced Saturdays on several slopes, including Cooper's Spur and Hoodoo. The highest ranking skiers from the men's team were John Kimberly, Alex Inman, Tom Huston, and Chris Austin. Among the women were Heather Huston, Denise Julian, Lynn Gibson, and Linda Eidemiller. This year's ski team was serious and dedicated to a deliriously fun winter passtime.

Breakfast, Jets

THE KELLOGG CREW

Probably the most experienced connoisseurs of breakfast cereals were the members of The Breakfast Club. The little known organization met biweekly to sample different breakfast foods. Clad in pajamas and slippers the eight members would discuss many imperative issues such as the best temperature at which to fry a crepe. Some controversy was raised in September when the Breakfast Clubbers could not decide on a club mascot. They were torn between Aunt Jemina and Mrs. Butterworth.

The club was selective when allowing new members to join the elite organization. Each new member was required to consume twenty pancakes, one pound of bacon, a box of cheeriors, and fifteen pop-tarts in twenty minutes. Surprisingly enough none of the members weigh over 250 pounds.

And Thespians

JUST "PLAYING" AROUND JETS

The Jets Club under the direction of Walt Looney, helped students, interested in math and problem solving become more knowledgeable about their futures in engineering. The various activities proved invaluable to these club members. "Jets has shown me a lot about what engineers do," commented junior Nils Jacobson. "Through Jets, my career choices have been consolidated."

JETS, David Montgomery, Walt Looney, Nils Jacobson, Eric Hudson, Andy Blom.

Acting out was nothing new for members of this year's Thespian club. The group included Wilson theater lovers and drama students from all four classes. They concentrated on fund-raising activities like the annual costume sale and a second annual improvisational marathon, and sponsored the "Troscar" theater awards. Thespians and others participating in Wilson drama, maintaining a 3.5 grade point, were also eligible for Wilson's new scholar-artist award.

Beginning And

NEW BEGINNING

Starting out in style the Beg. Wilson Jazz Ensemble demonstrated both talent and potential in its first year of existence at Wilson. Members of the new group were mostly new band members and musicians taking up new instruments for the first time. Although inexperienced, they were determined to work hard under the guidance of Greg McKelvey with assistance from others such as artist-in-residence Thera Memory. The new ensemble portrays a harmonic future for Wilson's Jazz program.

Advanced Jazz

ALL THAT JAZZ

In the Wilson music department the King of Swing is still the Advanced Jazz Ensemble. This year's group featured some of Wilson's finest musicians competing and performing together. Their jazzy sound depended on saxophones, trumpets, drums, piano, bass, and guitar. Among the most outstanding performers in the group were Sam Burton, Rand Barnett, and Collin Oldham. Director Greg McKelvey and artist-in-residence Thera Memory received help in leading the ensemble from such talented local musicians as Lawrence Williams and Mel Brown. According to McKelvey, such artists are "some of the most fantastic resources that Portland has to offer music students in this area."

Choir And

QUALITY TUNE-UP

1987 was right on key for the talented vocalists of Wilson's choir program. The largest performance ensemble was the Concert Choir. In addition to Winter and Spring concerts at Wilson, the Concert Choir also participated in a special competition in San Francisco where the highly talented members of the Senior Ensemble. This smaller vocal group specialized in precise harmonization and polished performances. Under the expert guidance of choir leader, Becky Thompson, both choral groups, the Barbershop Quartet and Sweet Adelines made this year sing with success.

The spring concert is combined with a fine arts show of student work. Over 1000 spectators crammed the auditorium for each of the performances.

IF YOU'RE ON KEY AND YOU KNOW IT, raise your hands! Jim Griffith leads the active members of the Senior Ensemble.

BACH TO SCHOOL

Three times each week, the dedicated orchestra members gathered before school to fill the halls with the sounds of brass and strings. Under the direction of Adrian Brown, the musicians practiced to reach perfection and their ultimate goal - a statewide competition in San Francisco. Stated Jon Rekow, "Orchestra is a unique music experience."

NUCLEAR AWARENESS

THE DAY BEFORE... Preparing For A Secure Future

In an effort to direct student attention to the escalating crisis of the nuclear arms race, the student council organized a Nuclear Awareness Day in November. The council invited speakers supporting all positions to talk openly with students. More nuclear opponents than proponents accepted the invitation, however. The keynote speaker was Sen. Mark Hatfield, who gave a thought-provoking speech which rose above political barriers, calling for a united effort against nuclear age, and commended Wilson students for their interest. He concluded by saying, "I came here today ... to encourage you to fight on, to persist, to persevere."

BLOOD DRIVE

"GIVE BLOOD, ALL YOU'LL FEEL IS GOOD"

Jenny Niederloh and other volunteers were "on tap" at the Red Cross Blood Drive. Wilson students and faculty contributed 93 pints of blood for the blood drive, exceeding their goal of 80 pints. Blood donors were required to be seventeen or older, weigh at least 110 pounds, and pass an interview about their health history.

126 people registered to give blood. 99 of them actually gave and the other 27 were deferred. According to Activities Director, Sue Severson, deferrals were usually caused by iron-poor blood. Students took the blood drive seriously and had a sense of pride knowing they were helping others.

MAX FACTS

MAX BECOMES A REALITY

Max, Metropolitan Area Express, was a new transportation addition to Portland this fall. The long-awaited light rail is greatly appreciated by commuters from Gresham to Downtown and travelers between the East side and the City Center. The number of riders this year was double the amount projected by city officials. "The best thing is that I can transfer from bus to MAX on the same ticket," said senior Laura Stirewalt. The electrically fueled cars were 88 feet long and stopped at 27 stations along their route. They rolled through pouring rain and blowing snow this winter and will hopefully speed commuters through the city for many profitable years.

VOGUE TROJANS

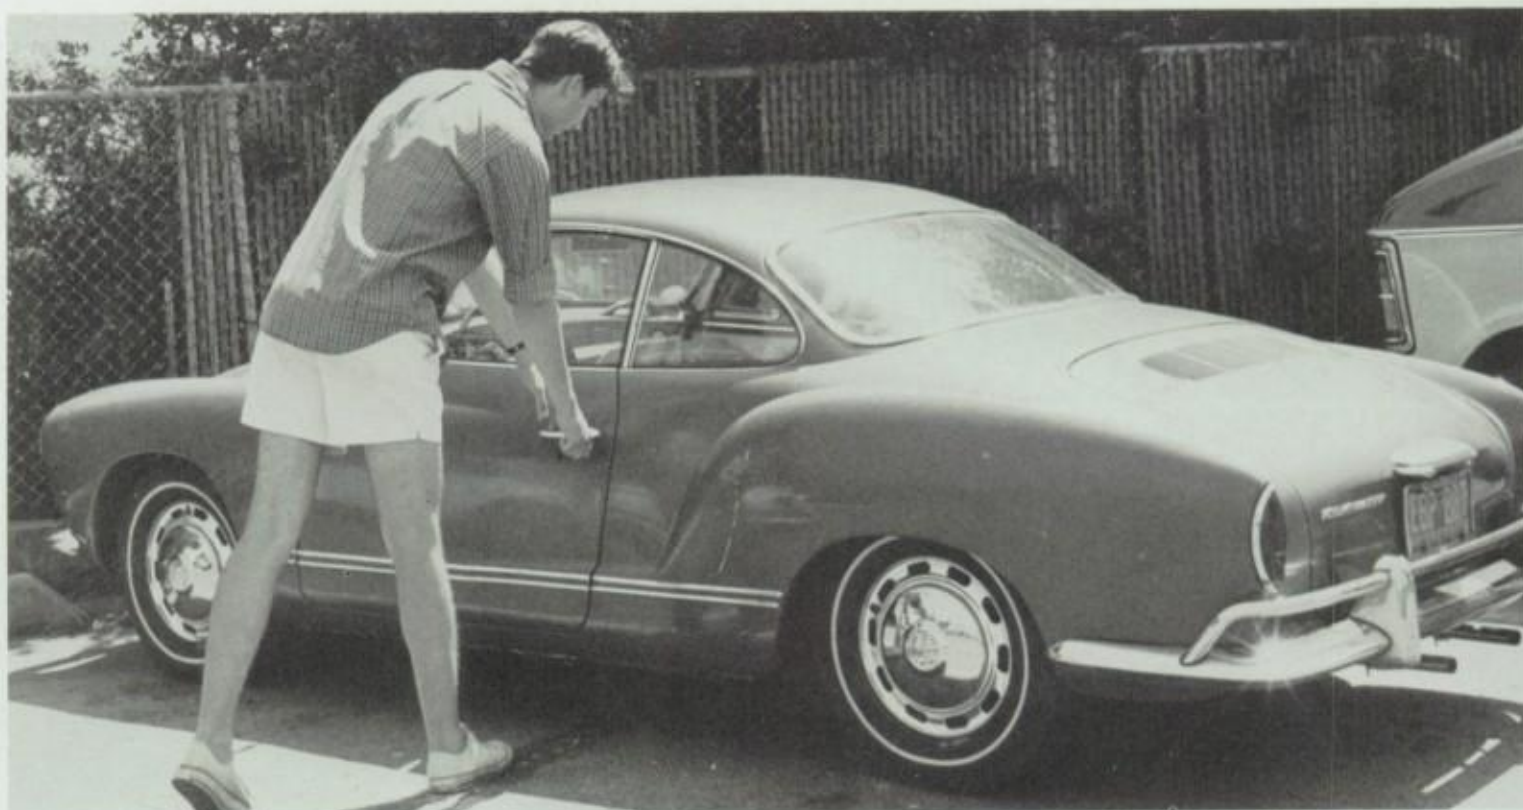

Wilson students express their individuality through their clothing as displayed by the styles worn by Kurt Lammers, Ever Norman, and Lee Posey.

From tie-dyes and patched Levis to khaki pants and shaker knit sweaters, the Wilson fashion scene was not homogenous. Colors varied; greys, blacks, blues, fuschias, and yellows dominated many wardrobes. Most students emphasized practicality in their clothing decisions, choosing basic sweatshirts, jeans, and tennis shoes. Others opted for a distinctive look, shopping Marios and Jay Jacobs.

Senior Renee Rodriguez, who was interviewed by Channel Eight for a fashion segment, commented on his original style, "I want to be unique; I express what I feel through my clothes."

Despite varying fashions, students related that clothing was only an outer shell to the person. As Senior Preston Martin remarked, "It's not what you wear, but what you think."

WHAT IS SENIORITIS?

"It is a time when Seniors totally lose contact with reality and don't give a hoot about activities at school." -Jennifer Ballenger

"Senioritis is when nothing matters except 3:05 when the bell rings." -Christy Digman

"The feeling that you have nothing in your head and you have so few brain cells that you can't even think of a quote." -Chantal Teteault

"Senioritis is sort of like arthritis- it gets stiff after a while." -Suzanne Vinhasa

"It's a contagious disease affecting all Seniors which has symptoms of laziness, merrymaking, procrastination, disobedience, and an optimistic feeling that there has got to be more to life than homework which never gets done anyway." -Sally Murdoch

"CHECK-MATE" Mike Hampton says nonchalantly as he makes the most vital move of the game.

*Note from the Editor:

In explanation for the number of seniors missing from the mug section, we had to set a precedent in getting our layouts to the printer before Christmas. This was necessitated in our effort to produce an award winning book. Not trying to make an example of these people, we are truly sorry that they couldn't be represented due to the early deadline.

Thankyou

"Almost, but not quite"- Steve Sexton

"A sophomore with less time until graduation"-
Mark Levinson

"Someone who's there physically, but not mentally".-Lisa Smith

"A Senior-in-training"-Marie Brice

"Cosmic"-Sean August

"More powerful, but not a Senior, no longer an underclassman"-Nancy Pimentel

"Almost ready for life"- Karim Anorani

"Someone who always has massive homework and he wishes he was a Senior, but has the best time anyway"- Heidi Brown

DEFICIT DODGERS In an effort to prepare for a relaxed senior year, Junior Historian Julie Havener, Secretary Sarah Barrett, Vice President Megan Vertner, Treasurer Tom Boyd, and President Jeff Noles experienced a hectic term, planning dances and dinners. Their first major activity was the successful Dad-Daughter Banquet. They then directed their attentions to the ballroom scene, planning exciting and innovative formals: the Queen of Hearts and the Prom. The Junior officers also appeared several times this year with the entire council, producing entertaining, original skits and campaigns.

STUDYING UP Junior Stephanie Decker takes advantage of a quiet moment in the L-Courtyard to catch up on her reading. Junior year is traditionally a time for heavy homework and term papers.

How many hours per night do you study? One to three hours 59%, less than one 35%, three or more 6%. How much homework do Wilsonites have? The right amount 45%. Too much 42.5%. Not enough 12.5%. Who has the most work at Wilson? JUNIORS 95%, everyone else 5%.

WORKING FOR A LIVING

 earn big bucks*

From taking orders at McDonald's to answering the telephone at an office, the majority of juniors held jobs during the school year. Besides supplementing many allowances, jobs provided valuable work experience and a way to meet others. According to junior Cathy Stohr, "Holding a job has been a great experience. It taught me responsibility and how to manage money". Although many worked for the extra money, others enjoyed the benefits of meeting new people. "It is great working with people of all ages and being treated as an equal", said Cathy.

"JUST AIM, FOCUS, AND SHOOT" Taking pictures is easy with an instamatic camera," claims Junior,

Rob Gilbert an aspiring, young photographer who has worked professionally at dances.

Running Is More Than Fun

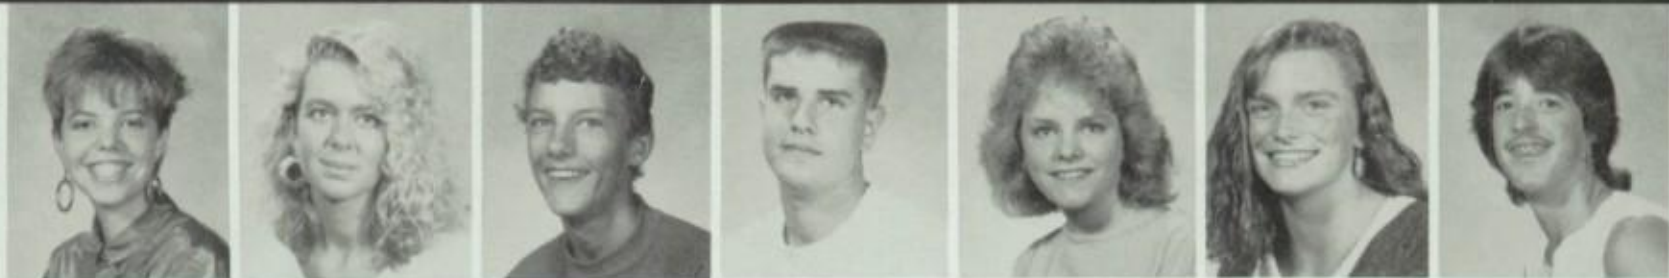

Winter Track attracted cross-country runners as well as track members. The athletes prepared for two indoor track meets, at which they enthusiastically competed. Other runners participated mainly to just get in shape or stay in shape between Cross-Country and Track seasons.

Sophomore, Brett Coltman, braves the cold December weather to prepare himself for the 1987 Track season. New prospects and members of last years team are participating in a running and weight training program to ensure a winning season next year.

BOYS' SPIKERS

Offseason volleyball attracts athletes from all sports.

SERVING UP A BULLET Wilson's all-male volleyball team experienced success in their inaugural season. Alex Palacios, one of the premiere servers pictured here in action, stated, "I enjoyed the layed back compition of the extracurricular sport. It was being a part of a new team, especially that is usually for girls only."

TRES MATURE JUNIORS, Marie Brice, Cheryl Cusick, Anna Chimienti, Heather Brown, and Christy Kramer were frivolous, flamboyant freshman. As Juniors, their lifestyle isn't quite so carefree.

LOWER-UPPER CLASSMEN

THAT'S NOT FUNNY, Juniors Tom Doblle, Chris Fender, and Mike Collins relax and joke around in the cafeteria, a favorite place for friends to gather, have a Coke, a great plate of home-made spaghetti and share a little hot air!

Jive talkin'

conversation light.

TAKING THE EASY WAY DOWN, Senior Vinh Van Knight slides down the banister instead of walking. This is often the more chosen path down the stairs.

A perfect ten!

SILLY SOPHOMORE, Jessica Harris displays her pride in being a tenth-grader. These "wise fools" rejoice about driver's permits and extensions on U.S. History exams.

FUTURE FINANCIER Jason Lagesen, returning Sophomore Class President, studies for an Algebra test. Mathematical expertise was needed to keep track of all the money the class earned.

SOPHOMORES

WHAT IS A SOPHOMORE?

"Someone who is into the routine of high school."-Tim Shoepe

"A student who is not as dumb as a Freshman."-Charlene Wagner

"A wise fool"-Leirion Gaylor

"Stuck in the middle"-Adrienne Soot

"Groovy"-Kevin Dahlgran

"An upper-lower classman"-Brigid Cullen

"Someone who can do it better"-Timmy Conner

"Someone who's in the middle going nowhere, kind of lost"-Eric Warninghoff

"Better than a Freshman"-Ken Madewell

MONEY MONGERS

Sophomore class officers, Secretary Debbie Doyle, Vice President Leirion Gaylor, President Jason Lagesen, Historian Kate McCormick, and Treasurer Andrew Stoll, were the political minds behind the efficient Sophomore student council. The outstanding group released the phone directory, their major fund-raiser, in October. It sold out. Profits from Directory Ad sales kept the class treasury in the black.

Sophomore Jenny Berkman expands her social connections with the phone directory sponsored by the sophomore class officers, who typed it during the summer to guarantee an early release. The book offered Wilson students phone numbers and an easily recognizable neon green cover designed by Justin Phelps. Said Kris Blodgett "The directory is finely constructed and convenient. I use it regularly."

Sophomore Class Officers dedicated time and energy to create the Phone Directory.

Underclassmen who entered the cafeteria at the beginning of the year were slightly confused by the complex and informal seating arrangement, however, by November they were in the swing of things.

Freshman and Sophmores realized that if they sat at a table with less than eight people they were pariahs in the eyes of the other underclassmen.

"Someone who keeps everything in his locker and nothing in his hands"-Lawren Dawkins

"Smaller than a Sophomore"-Mike Stahr

"Sociable"-Rhea Coleman

"Immature"-Colette Johnson

"Still in a junior-high state of mind"-Britnie Houch

"Someone who's very nice and shy"-Rayonna Simpson

STARTING FRESH
Frosh Officers, Treasurer Julie Ellisman, Historian Jackie Wallace, President Ryan Yuzon, Secretary Amy Lewis, and Vice President Joyce Heald, established a strong start for their class at Wilson. They provided extensive assistance in organizing all-school events such as Homecoming and United Way. They also worked to raise money for the class with a candy bar sale that began in December.

IT'S IN HERE SOMEWHERE Lyn Morton realizes that though Mexican straw bags are tres chic, they have a reputation for consuming pens, pencils, and other various implements for writing. The bags were available in a multitude of colors and were relatively inexpensive at La Paloma in Hillsdale (and other import stores). Unfortunately, the straps on the bags tended to break under the strain of the average book load.

ALTERNATIVE SCHOOL:

Wilson's option to the mod system

FLEXIBLE MOD FLEX Kim Churchill looks for a chair in the computer room at Mary Reike. This small school adjacent to Wilson offered students the opportunity to participate in a structured classroom environment. The vacant grade school was very convenient.

NOT JUST ANOTHER BRICK IN THE WALL Trojane Kali Zabronsky models the latest in dance team fashion, as she enters the cafeteria, the hottest social spot in the school. The cafeteria has seating for only 300 students; over 1800 attend Wilson.

Executive Board

STUDENT BODY ADDS NEW SPICE TO LEADERSHIP

"IT'S COLD OUT HERE!" Student Body Vice President, Stephanie Bell, bites her lip and suffers through the trauma of being photographed on a sub-freezing morning.

MAKING THINGS HAPPEN

At 7:45 am, long before most Wilson students had ventured out their doors, the student body officers—President Blake Evans, Vice President Stephanie Bell, Secretary Kurt Huffman, Treasurer Erin Lagesen, Activities Director Matt Hirschland, Athletics Commissioner Skep Palacios, Human Relations Liaisons, Kimberly Loggins and Rose Roberts, and Publicity Director Sean Kell, congregated to discuss Wilson problems and activities. They were supervised by Activities Director Sue Severson. The entire SITTING PRETTY Student Body President Blake Evan's smile exudes the confidence he feels in his cabinet's accomplishments. Evans faithfully presided over council meetings throughout the year.

council planned and executed the Homecoming assembly, dance and Wilson's first parade. Council members succeeded in involving over sixty other students in preparation for Homecoming. The group next tackled the United Way fundraiser, taking in $1080 and earning special recognition for the school. They also devoted hours to Nuclear Awareness Day, Second Wind and the Blood Drives. Said Susan Severson, "They really work as a team. They know how to make things happen."

Before and after hours

IT'S BEEN A ROUGH DAY ...
Matt "Kruger" tries to unwind after a murderous afternoon. Many students dressed up as their favorite characters on Halloween.

WEEKEND TRANSPORTATION
Sailboats, both owned and rented, are a favorite among students as a means of escape from the hassles of everyday life.

ACTIVITIES

Whether they were donating money to United Way, dancing the night away at the Winter Formal, or giving blood at the Blood Drive, students determined to get involved this year. A multitude of activities attracted diverse student groups. The many dances, assemblies and other events served as opportunities for educational entertainment. According to senior Jacki Geary, "Activities are the best way I know to break the monotony of the school week." Students found that through activities, they had the chance to feel a part of the Wilson atmosphere.

RIDING WITH ROYALTY Tim O'Brian, Todd Weeks, Chris Austin, and Freshman Princess Jennifer Kelting wait for their turn to enter the field at the Homecoming game.

NEON NIGHTS

The weather was cold, the music was Cool'r, but Wilson's annual winter semi-formal warmed the night to boiling. Organized by the senior class officers, the December dance was held at the Portland Eagles Aire 4. A no-host bar served up non-alcoholic Mai tais and daquiris to thirsty students while the dance floor rocked to the rhythmic funk sound of the local band Cool'r. In addition to regular couples' bids, this year's senior officers sold single bids to encourage students without dates to attend the dance. In Senior Class Treasurer Chris Taylor's opinion, "Neon Nights was a definite success."

AVANT-GARDE Jeane Nelson and Joey Lucero display their individuality at the semi-formal. The dance was a perfect location for spotting any and every variety of Wilson fashion.

ALL DRESSED UP ... and ready to go! Becca Turner, Robin Descamp, Melinda Jelline and Heather Huston as they enjoy a wild winter evening, shimmer and smile.

STAR-STRUCK Calder McCall, Kari Anderson, Issac Johnson, Chantal Tetreault and Spencer Rubin light up the night at Pioneer

Courthouse Square. The square was decked with festive lights throughout December in honor of the Holiday season.

QUEEN OF HEARTS

NOCTURNAL GROUPIES Devoted Midnight Sun fans Kalley Aman and Vanessa Yocom elbow their way to front stage for a scrutinizing look at lead singer John Gray.

RED AND WHITE: QUEEN OF HEARTS

The People's Court set the stage for the 1987 Queen of Hearts assembly. Standing trial as princesses were Seniors Shannon Fale, Kelly Lock, Chrystin Orser, and Meredith Welch, Juniors Gretchen Palmberg and Molly Schmidt, Sophomores Debbie Doyle and Erika Frazier and Freshmen Kathy Jubitz and Kristin Kohnke. The festivities continued on into Valentine's night as students gravitated toward the Coliseum's Georgia-Pacific room after dining in Portland's finest restaurants. Bedecked in finery they left their limousines and moved to the beat of Midnight Sun. During a break, Kelly Lock was crowned Queen of Hearts. The successful event netted $1,300 for the Junior class.

I'M COOL AND I KNOW IT Senior Kelly Lock, newly elected Queen of Hearts, ecstatically fantasizes about a Valentine's Eve filled with wild dancing and, social activity. Kelly was picked from four person court of outstanding senior girls who had an honorab GPA.

WHY FALL IN LOVE?

WHY NOT DANCE? Senior Princess Christine Orser tolerates scorching lights and a crowded dance floor to gyrate to the rhythm of Midnight Sun.

STOP IN THE NAME OF LOVE Sopomore Kristie Griffith amazes her admirers with complicated dance steps.

WILL YOU BE MINE? Todd Ecklund and date discuss the band's immeasurable talent and universal appeal.

Carrie, I was so surprised when I saw you at Wilson the day on orientation. I never expected we'd become friends, but we did, so hey! Can you give me a ride home? (Just kidding)
 Love ya
 Kristin

HOME COMING

HOME SWEET HOMECOMING

Homecoming 1986 conjures memories of pirates, princesses and Wilson's first parade. Activities commenced Friday morning, October 17, with the announcement of each princess in a rousing lip-sync assembly. Seniors Kim Cude, Heather Huston, Erin Lagesen, Alison Roberts, Juniors Kelly Manning, Angela Stock, Sophomores Leirion Gaylor, Kate McCormick, and Freshmen Carey Drennen and Jennifer Kelting were elected to the court. Friday night the student council hosted a celebration and dance. Saturday, Wilsonites marched down Vermont and through Hillsdale, entertaining bystanders with music and floats. The event culminated with the Wilson-Madison game at which Heather Huston was crowned queen.

HAPPY HEATHER HUSTON is elated as she receives her homecoming crown. Her scintillating court surrounds and showers her with congratulations.

BUGGY RIDE Junior Princesses Kelly Manning and Angela Stock attempt to retain their excitement as they begin their trek across the football field in front of a supportive student body.

ON THE ROAD AGAIN The band jams out as they keep step through the streets of Hillsdale. They were the main attraction at the Homecoming parade.

IN THE SPOTLIGHT

WHY PLAY AROUND

"WHAT'S OUR CUE AGAIN?" wonders Jenny Niederloh as she waits anxiously in the wings with Karen Unger. Actors need a few minutes to concentrate on character and lines before making each entrance.

TINA TURNER TWO! Julie Venables splits her ends as Julie Lindbeck prepares her head for the stage. Lindbeck rattled several girls' hair each night to produce accurate 40's styles.

"BUT THAT WOULDN'T BE NICE!" realizes Whiteside Scott Prendergast as Banjo Jeff Noles hits upon a brilliant plan for disposing of Lorraine Meigan Crabtree. The sarcophagus pictured a space crisis backstage.

"Dinner" Theater Comes to Wilson

When Sheridan Whiteside comes to dinner, he serves up laughs and entertainment as a main course. Junior Scott Prendergast did no less this fall as the temperamental Whiteside in Wilson's production of The Man Who Came to Dinner.

As the play begins, Whiteside is convalescing in suburban home where he injured himself two weeks earlier during a dinner party in his honor. As the action progresses, the mishaps and mayhem resulting from his unwelcome stay keep the audience on their toes until the final curtain. Directed by Julie Accuardi, The Man Who Came to Dinner was exactly suited to Wilson audiences tasted.

"KISS ME YOU FOOL!" demands Banjo Jeff Noles as Miss Preen Marti Schmidt struggles to regain dignity after being swept off her orthopedic shoe-clad feet. Both Moles and Schmidt's wacky characters contributed to the audience's enjoyment.

IMPROVISATION

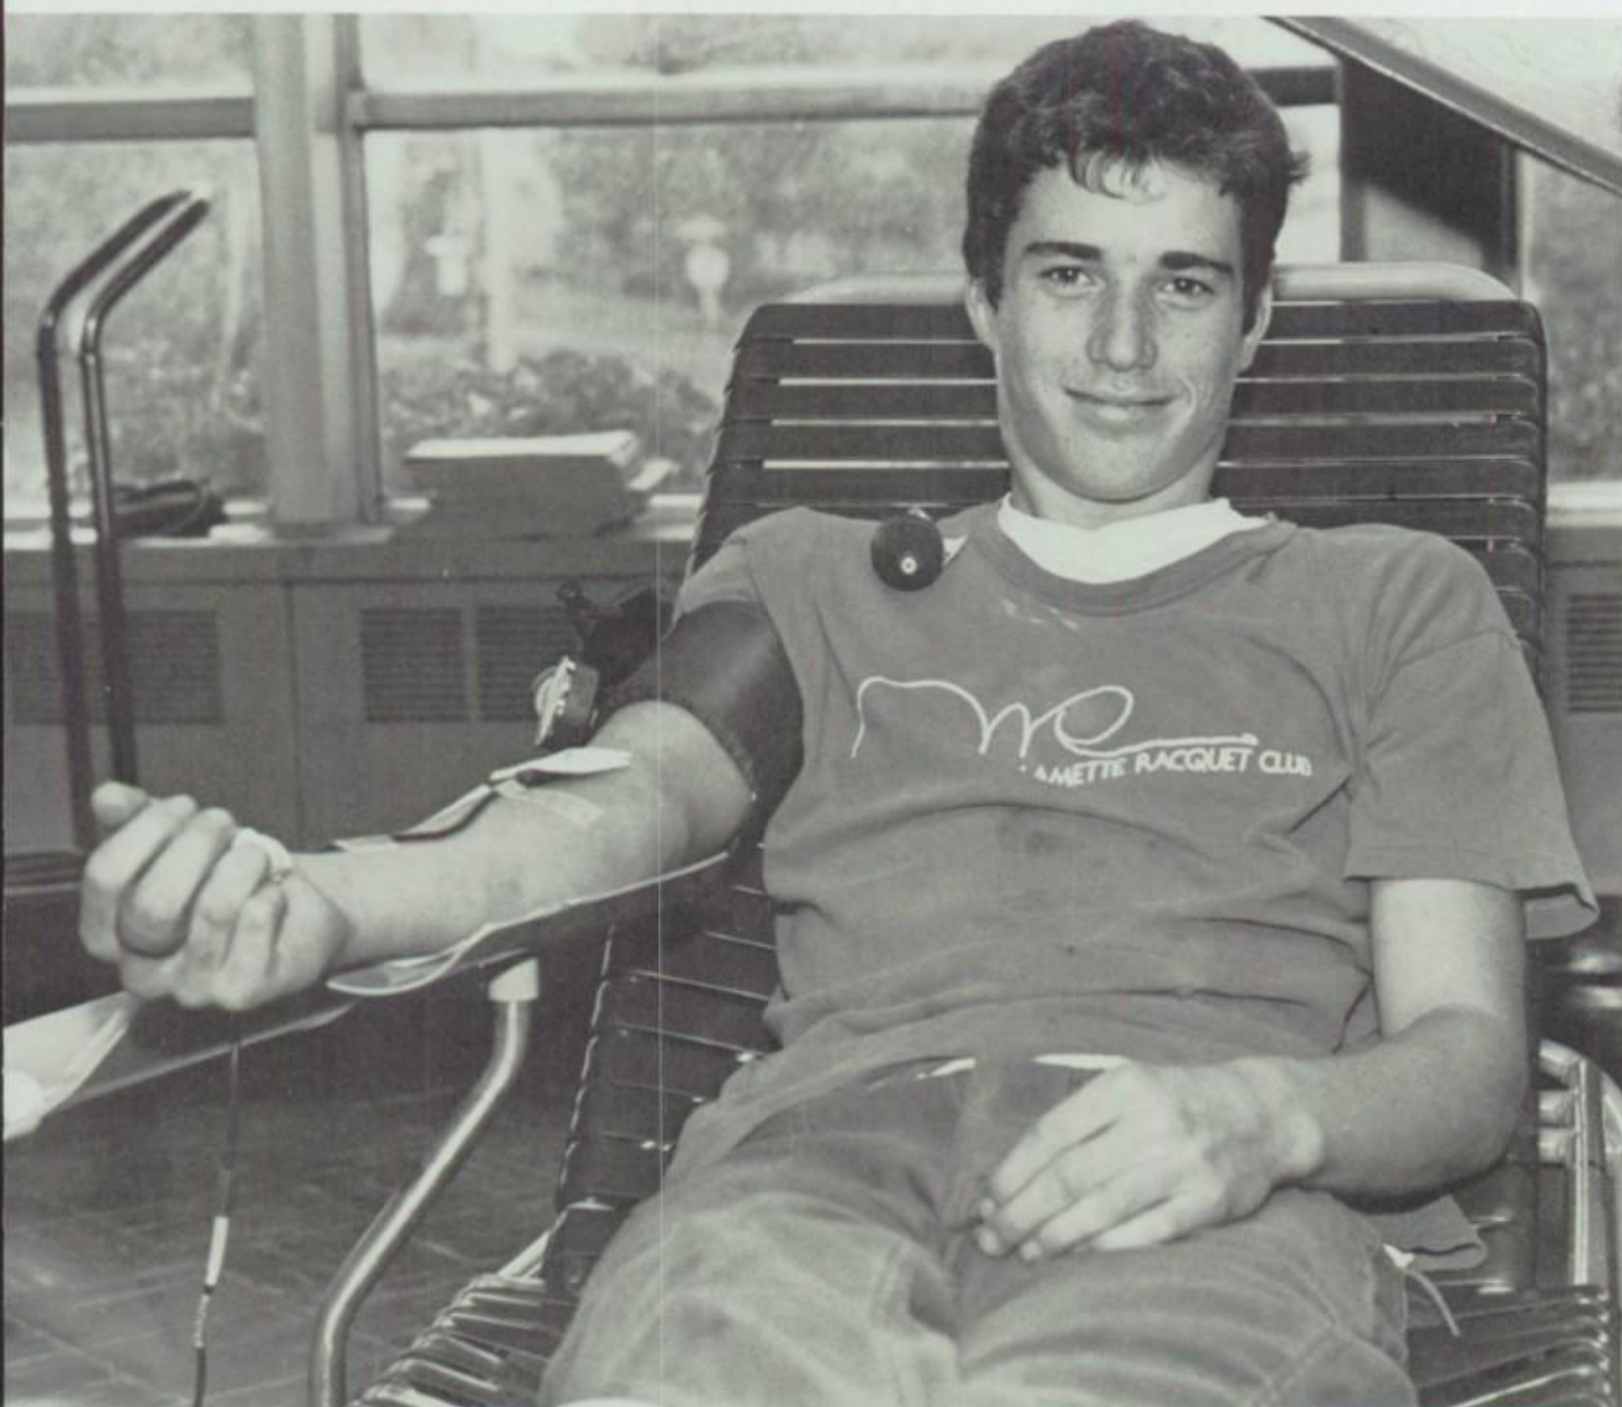

Drama students again presented the Improvisation Assembly for the Wilson Student Body. Ten artists and four alternates began at 8:30 in the morning and were on stage until 6:30 that evening. Improvisation consists of two or three people acting out anything they chose until an alternate steps in and on a new subject - totally unrehearsed. Senior Jennifer Collins stated that "The hardest part of the entire production was trying to pick an interesting topic to portray while sticking to the subject. You have to pick fun ideas that will keep the students interested and laughing."

WHERE FOR ART THOU JULIET?! Rick Barbur and ten McMahon actors from Ashland visited Wilson to present Shakespearean assemblies to the Student Body. These two fine performers were among the many who graced Wilson this year.

HEADLESS HORSEMAN?! Brian Fink and Kelly Hedtke demonstrate their talent during the Improvisation Assembly. Modest Hedtke hides her head as the crowd applauds wildly.

BLEEDING FOR CHARITY

ALL TIED UP Jimmy Robb licks back in the comfort of a lawn chair as a good-natured donor. Donors were required to weigh at least 110 pounds and be seventeen years old.

BLOOD DRIVE

The Blood Drive of 1987 was a success, ninety pints of blood were collected from Wilson students arms. The goal this year was eighty pints. The school exceeded their goal thanks to the many volunteers. Student volunteers helped check in donors and administered their snacks of orange juice and cookies. The administration was pleased with the effort by students that volunteered and that gave blood. One attending nurse stated, "The generosity and concern of the Wilson Student Body is enormous."

"HEAVEN HELP ME!" Nicole Parker appears reluctant as she approaches the helpful nurse. Many students pledged to donate blood weeks in advance.

ASSEMBLIES

WHY GET TOGETHER?

STRAIGHT FROM GYPSY JOKERS

Thundarra, ruler of the Rockers Tim Garey is presented to the court with her escort Kathleen Cox on their imitation Harley Davidson.

"JUST SAY NO!" Nancy Reagan (Chris Taylor), and Ronnie (Kellye Krieger) are escorted to the stage by a security guard during the election of the Miss United Way Queen. Nancy's appearance was an unexpected treat for the student body.

WATCH OUT JOHN TRAVOLTA!
The student council discos for the student body during a November Pep assembly. Who would have guessed they practiced their polished dance moves at their early-morning meetings.

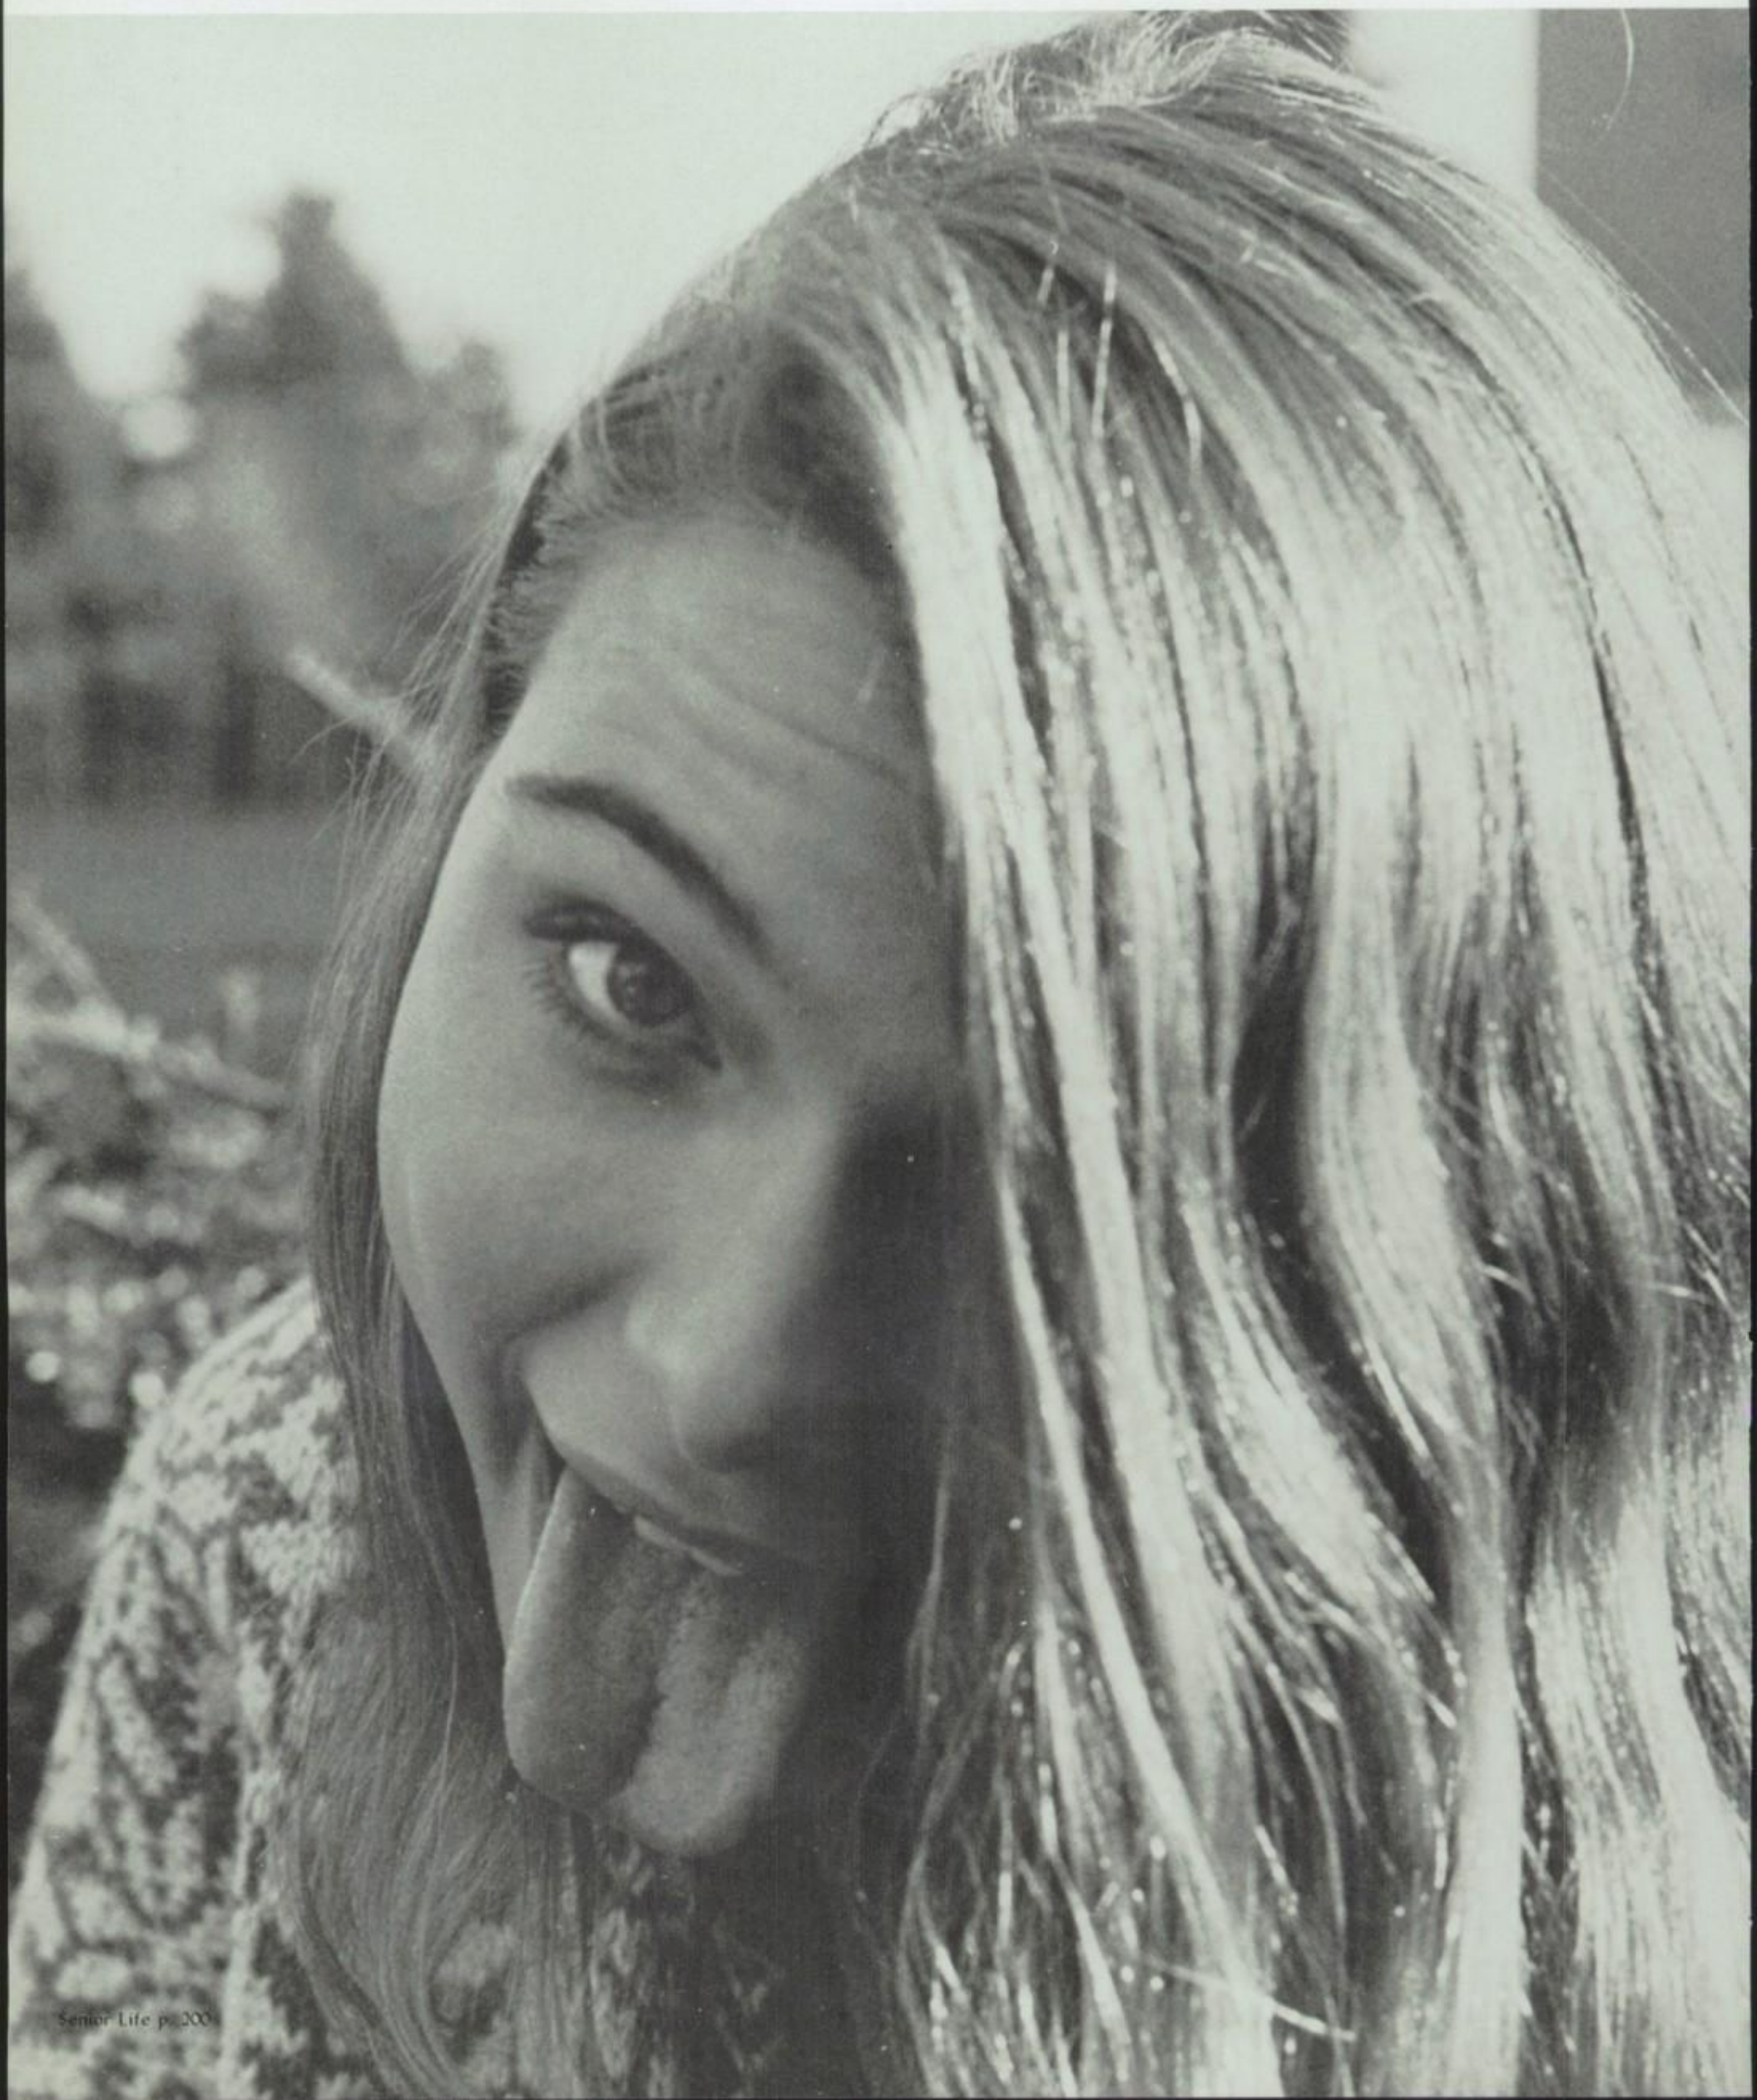

TOGETHER WE SIT

Again students demonstrated their school spirit by participating in a wide variety of assemblies offered for education and entertainment. The usual Pep assemblies were held before major games to encourage students to attend sports events and cheer on their fellow classmates. The Yearbook and Statesman staffs contributed to the excitement by sponsoring a Pumpkin Carving Contest during the Halloween Pep Assembly. The annual Miss United Way Pageant was a success as eight lovely princesses, with their handsome escorts, helped collect money for the needy. The Shakespearean actors present a dramatic montage from Ashland. Some assemblies culminated with questions and answers in class rooms.

YEAH. WE'RE BAD! The varsity football team makes their way through the fans to be introduced to the student body during a Pep assembly. The enthusiastic Wilson crowd cheered them to a successful season.

Over and out

LOUNGING AROUND. Senior Joe Lawson reads a book, while taking a break from rehearsal.

SENIORITY. Senior Dana Seibert demonstrates her reaction to the realization that she can now imitate freshmen.

SENIOR LIFE

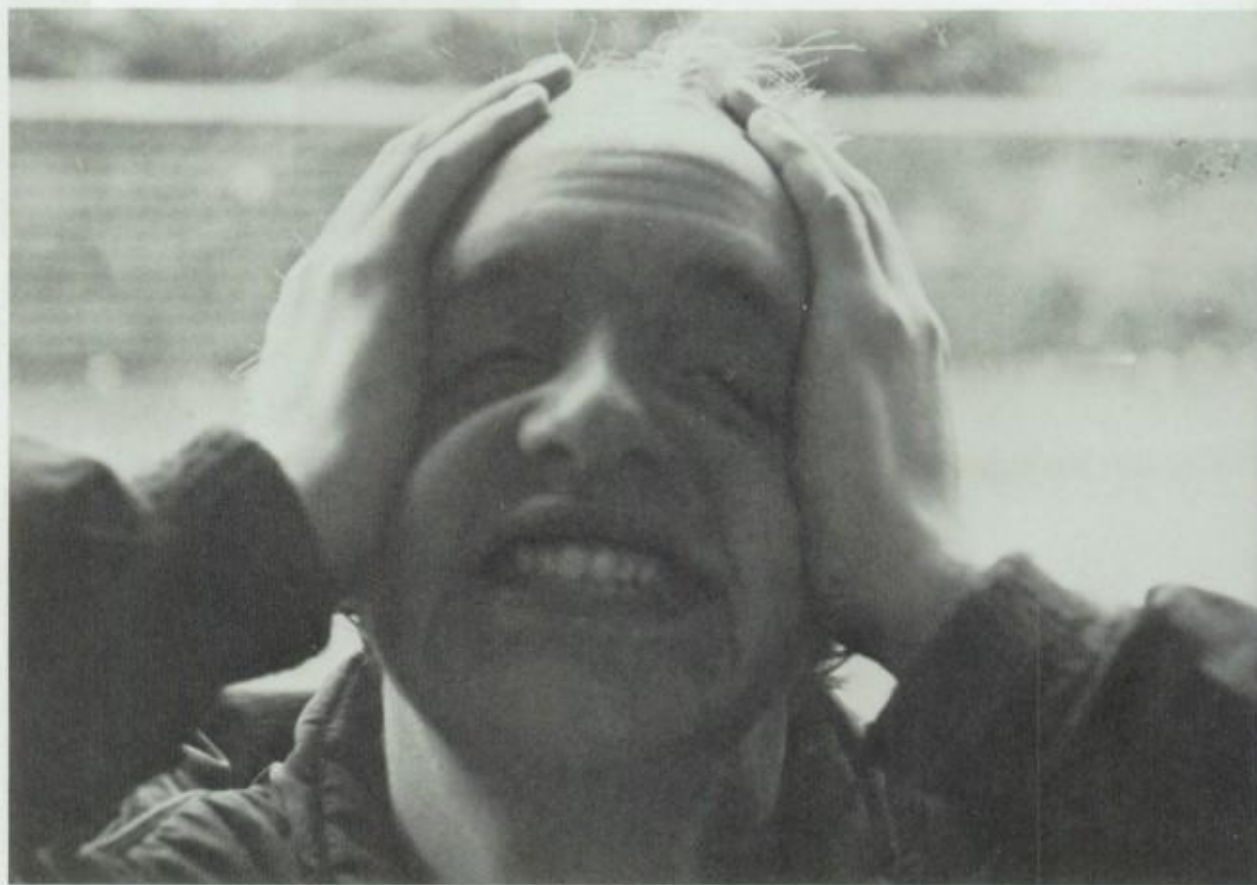

Knowing that graduation was just around the corner, seniors maintained their fast-paced lives and planned for the future. High on the list of priorities were college applications. Many held part-time jobs to subsidize allowances, and celebrated on weekends with friends. Although senior year was frustrating at times, it also was climatic and held many good memories for all. According to Alison Roberts, "The best thing about being a senior is that you can act like a frosh and no one will care."

STUDENT DISCIPLINE. Math teacher, Scott McDermet, punishes student Lee Holzman for not turning his test in upside-down.

SENIOR YEAR DUPLICITY

Senior Year ... a year of times wrought with conflict and inner turmoil. When we're torn between the power of handling adult responsibilities and the pleasure of laying back, putting our feet up and relaxing. When we know that we should study intensely and devote our existence to homework, yet we find it difficult to fight the urge to go out on the town and party. When it seems like we've been at this school a lifetime, yet we're reluctant to depart ... What a short normal trip it's been!

THAT'S THE WAY IT WAS

When we were young . . . Freshman year- "I hate the word FROSH! I got an awesome deal on elevator passes!" "What mod is it?" "I don't know, what's a mod?" "Help, a senior! Run!!" "School was fine, Mom, but I'm never going back. Wiser but still young . . . Sophomore year- "Arena scheduling, what a mess!" "Let's grab a grilled cheese and fries." "No way am I going to get in that pool, Mr. McFarland!" "Yeah, Mom, the basketball championship was gnarly! I can't wait to be a junior!" Not as young but still confused . . . Junior year- "What are the thematic implications of finally being an upperclassman?" "Who are you asking to prom?" "What did you get on your PSAT'S?" "Mommy, won't you type my term paper, Pleeeeze?" Old, but who cares anyway? . . . Senior year- "Whoa, Dude, we can sit by the windows." "Are you going to college?" "Either there or Sauvie's." "I can finally stop pretending to be laid back . . . I am laid back!" "Yo, Ma, I'm taking the car to California! See you in August!" "We're outta here!" "Homework? I did that last year." "Let's do our King Lear essay." " . . . "Nah, let's do Burger King." "Who cares what mod it is anyway?"

"DON'T SQUEAL ON ME!" Senior Todd Lambert displays his natural adolescent curiosities to the chargin of his female prey, which happens to be Maureen Wood.

'The Car Doctor'

GROWING WITH PORTLAND FOR 86 YEARS

In 1900 we imported handmade Persian rugs and sold them to the early Portland residents from our store on SW Washington Street. We dedicated ourselves to providing exceptional value with the finest quality merchandise and outstanding personal service. This same philosophy exists today at our three store locations where we specialize in providing handmade Oriental rugs from around the world, Karastan American Oriental rugs and wall to wall carpeting for homes and businesses.

ATIYEH BROS. 1900

ATIYEH BROS. 1986

86 years of growth enables us to serve your every rug and carpet need after purchase as well. In Portland or Eugene we provide the very best Rug, Carpet, Drapery and Upholstery Cleaning Service in homes and businesses. Plant cleaning of loose rugs and our experience in washing, repairing and appraising Oriental Rugs assure your trust. Domestic rug binding, fringing and hand sewing of custom border rugs complete our line of expertise and make us Oregon's finest full service rug and carpet business.

When you graduate to the Air Guard, your future's looking up.

And so is our country's. Because the professional men and women of the Air National Guard do more than provide the major portion of our national air defense. They provide aid in state and community emergencies as well.

Great benefits. Now and for your future.

By joining the Air Guard now, you'll be doing more than helping protect your community, state and home town. You'll be helping yourself.

Because the Air Guard is a part-time military job, you'll have plenty of time to pursue a civilian career. Or further your education which we may help you pay for.

What's more, we'll provide valuable technical training. The kind of training you could probably use to get a good civilian job or to advance in your chosen career.

Of course, you'll also receive low-cost life insurance, a retirement plan, base exchange privileges, and more. All for your part-time work in the Air Guard.

If you're ready to move ahead with your future, learn valuable job skills and earn extra income, call your Air Guard recruiter today.

503-288-5611, Ext 210.

You'll find out why we say, "In the Air Guard, the sky isn't the limit."

STUDENT ADS

Traditionally the Troyan Staff allocates space for students to individualize their yearbooks. The following pages were designed by the individuals, groups of families and friends desiring to deliver their own message.

Kent,

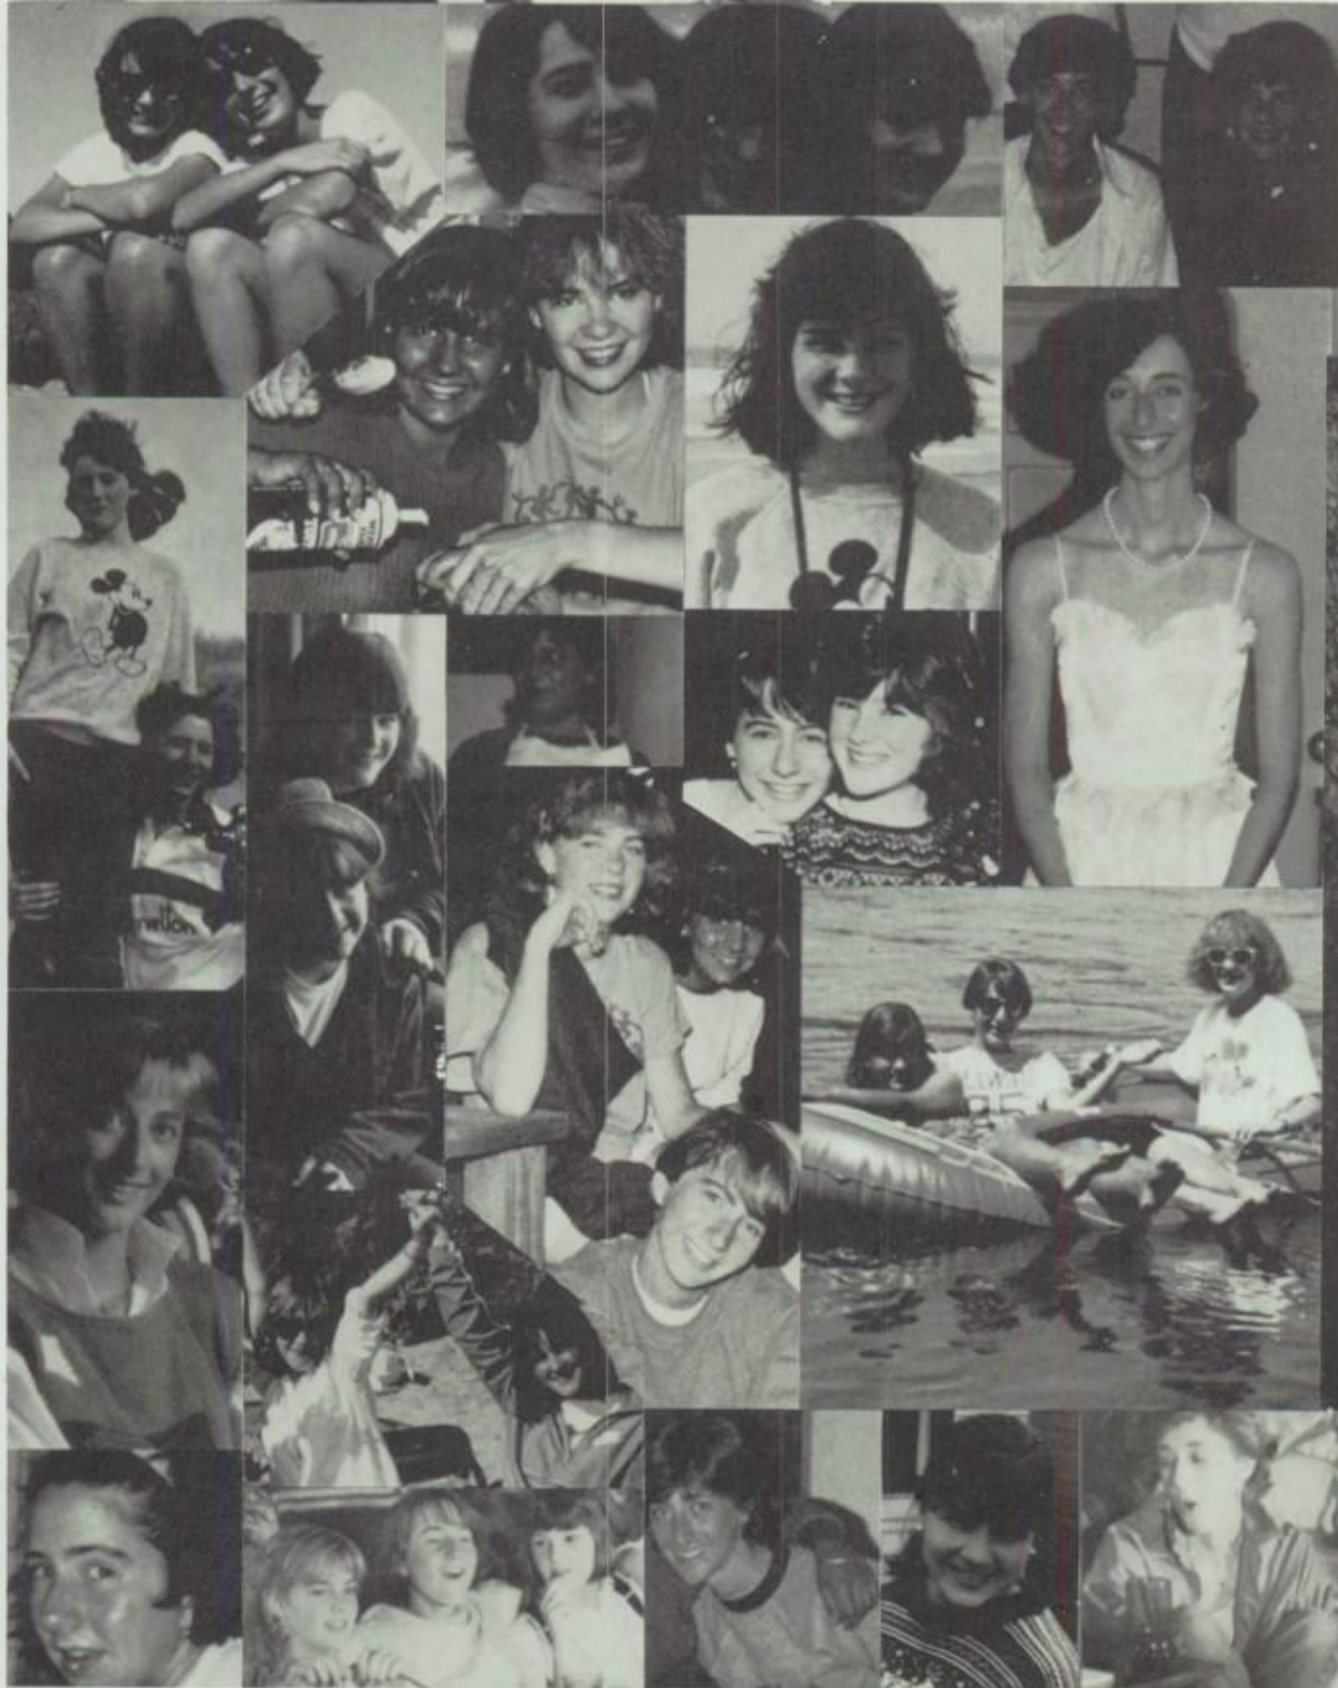

So "what do you think about . . . ?" I Know, "it's up to me" right? Maybe we should go "to the dock" or take a "trip" to McDonalds. But then again, there might be bugs in the car. Oh, don't worry, I'll never lose things in the park again!

I'm going to miss you!

Love, Angela

It's time to leave ...
 Our beginning is coming to a close and so we look toward tomorrow ...
 but let's look at
 yesterday and today
 We arrived here alone
 and begun our adventure
 together slowly, carefully.

Not sure of what
 Was expected or sure
 of what we wanted.
 But during our time
 We gave up our loneliness and insecurities
 We gained new friends, confidence in ourselves
 and a special feeling which cannot be defined by words ... We leave so much stronger for we have shared deeply.
 We can look at each other and smile
 For we are the BEST OF FRIENDS.

a sudden glance
a song, a word
a friendship has developed

we stood together
we laughed together
we fought together
we cried together

feelings grew feelings change feelings mature feelings withstand

4 gone by 4 too quick
4 already gone

spring has gone
sun is gone
friendship broken
until we meet again
Goodbye ...

A collage of black and white photographs showing various candid moments of young people, likely students, in different settings. The photos are arranged in a grid-like fashion, capturing spontaneous expressions and activities. The images include: a person in a dark dress and hat on the left; a person in a dark shirt and light pants in the top left; a person with arms outstretched in the top right; a group of people in the center, one wearing a 'GEORGETOWN' sweatshirt; a person in a light shirt and dark vest on the right; a person with their hand over their face in the bottom left; a person in a striped shirt in the bottom center; and a person in a light shirt in the bottom right.

"...we're not losin' or gainin' anything.
We're just goin' through the changes.
And the changes have brought us this far, and showed us this much,
and they're continuing to take us along.
That's the ride we're on."

Wilson Field Gets New Dugout

"The long waited baseball dugouts lend a professional look to the Wilson Field. Though they will not help us play better, the dugouts should give us a home field advantage."

News For Youth

A newspaper has been around Wilson this year titled YOUTH TODAY. YOUTH TODAY is comprised of a youth staff from the metropolitan area, and is sponsored by the Portland Public School System, The City of Portland, and THE OREGONIAN. While meeting twice a week the staff of eighteen put out four issues this year. Topics covered by the paper included Governoratorial elections, teen pregnancy, and teen drug abuse.

Next year the paper will continue to expand beyond the metropolitan area and into the remainder of the state, according to senior Andy Barrett.

IRANSCAM... ANOTHER WATERGATE?

Why was "Iranscam" the word on every informed White House watcher's lips in 1987? This new political slang referred to the United States' participation in secret arms deals with Iran which financed clandestine Contra activity in Nicaragua. Exposure of the covert operations triggered a field day in the press. As the scandal built, the daily headlines read like a Who's Who of Washington D.C. The closely followed Tower Commission investigation of the incident eventually placed the blame on several high-ranking government officials including President Reagan. Iranscam brought controversy and questions about our government into the forefront of this year's news.

WARY AND AWARE

CONTROVERSIAL TEEN CLINIC ... What well-publicized object was known as a responsible couple's best friend this year? With health clinics in Portland High Schools dispensing birth control devices and the official introduction of National Condom Week the intent to protect against pregnancy and disease became second nature. The decision to equip and educate students at Roosevelt, Jefferson, and Cleveland High Schools was not without controversy. Many parents and anti-abortionists demonstrated against the clinics.

RULES AND REGS

Chaos reigned the cafeteria for the first five months of the year. Food fights between classes raged as firecrackers exploded in garbage cans. Chew spit clogged the radiators and covered the floor, along with the remains of plate lunches, large chef salads, and chocolate chip cookies.

Disgusted by the area inhabited by Wilson students during lunch mods, the committee of twelve and the student council, attacked the situation, proposing remedies ranging from militaristic whistles and faculty guards stationed at the doors to prevent students from removing food from the area, to simple requests that students clean their tables. Eventually, a policy of warnings and referrals about disposing garbage was adopted. Though students did not become immaculate, they greatly improved their efforts to keep the cafeteria comfortable and presentable.

Conclusion

WHY?

Why do we continually find ourselves inexorably drawn to this esteemed educational institution? Why are the H-courtyard and the classrooms of Wilson so much more appealing than the beach on a sunny spring afternoon? Or are we here simply because of persistent parents and the lack of anything better to do? The high quality and dedication of our outstanding teachers entices us back to these crowded halls. The wide variety of learning opportunities and the array of necessary skills which we have acquired are valuable assets. Most importantly, Wilson stands out; we are each an integral part of its excellence.

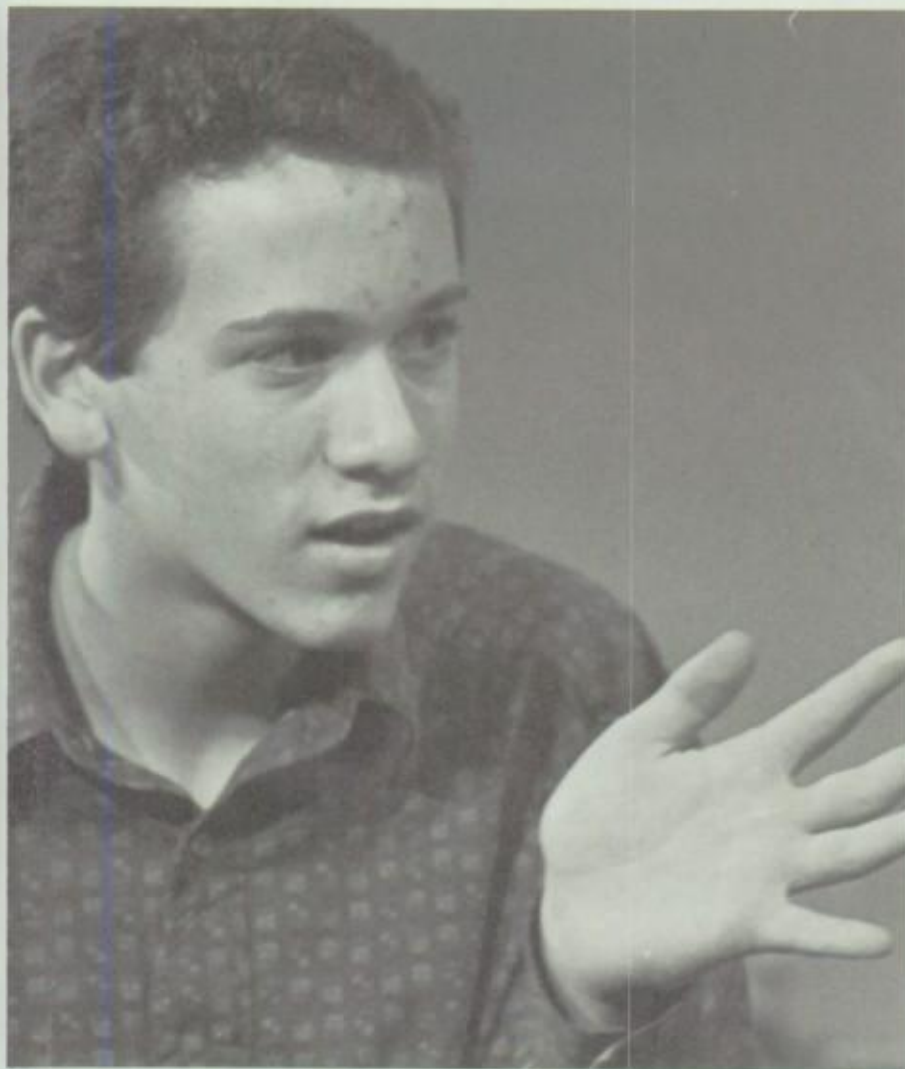

"SEE YOU NEXT YEAR!" Alan Austin waves a fond farewell to Woody as he joins Bryce Curtis, Jeff Yocum, Jennifer Morris, and Tonya Presley on their way out of Wilson's halls of learning.

NOBODY HOME The classrooms are vacant, the blackboards blank, and the chairs empty as Wilson spends it's summer awaiting a new influx of students in the fall.

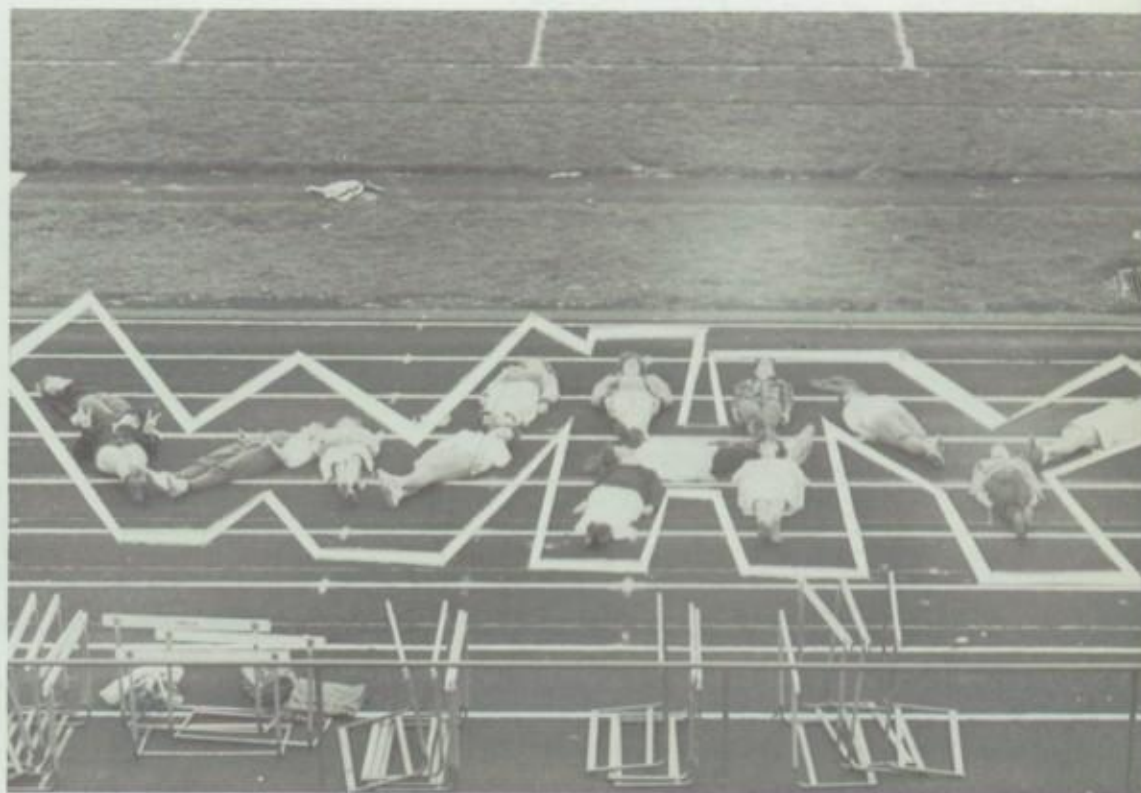

WHY NOT?

Why not move on? This school year of 1986-1987 quickly came to an end. Corrected term papers have found their way back into the hands of students. Freshman look forward escaping their year at the bottom of the Wilson social ladder. Sophomores anticipate their first summer driving and returning to school as upperclassmen. Juniors see their senior year in the near future and are excited about a year at the top. Seniors are receiving their acceptance letters from colleges, and see themselves situated in schools across town, across the state, and throughout the country.

FROSH TELLS IT LIKE IT IS. Saul Sallos asks "why?" about issues presented at a TV taping session.

Sallos is participating in Portland Public school's "School Reel" sponsored by KOIN studios.

MILKMAIDO. Jenny Robb shelves the milk at Barbur Foods where she is employed. This is her first job and her good humor helps her maintain employment and education.

WHIMSICALLY WONDERING. Wilson students express their inquisitiveness and confusion. Aircrafts marvelled at the existential attitude of the conscientious students forming the questioning word on the school's track.

A CWAZY WABBIT CONVERTABLE is acquired for a lift home by this group of exuberant Seniors. Christy Digman smiles from the drivers seat, though a dozen people are crammed into the vehicle that has taken her to and from school over the past two years.

Dear Annie-
Well it was a great year!
I wouldn't have been without you! You are really out - and I hope you and Jordi get together
this summer get together forever.
Love Holly.

P.S. someday that will be us!

Carrie-

my little East Moreland friend - Ya know I love that neighborhood, its so fun. The thing is you have to come into Inside Scoop to see me more. I am glad I met you and sophomore year let me tell you rocks, compared to freshman freshman was ghetto!! We need to go out and really party w/ Jennifer too!! Give me call dude - 245-7344. Love ya,

Stephanie Kjar

CARRIE-

You are a really neat person and I would like to get to know you better next year. Hope you have a killer summer.
